SECOND ATTACK ON SANTIAGO.

AMERICANS UNITE WITH INSURGENTS.

BLOODY FIGHT REPORTED GOING ON.

Unconfirmed Reports Say 3,000 Rebels Move Down on Santiago and Engage the Spaniards, While the American Fleet Blazes Away in Front.

[illegible] WILL [illegible]

The American Admiral and Cuban General Expected to Pounce on Santiago Any Moment.

Washington, June 2. It was plainly intimated at the navy department today that big operations were expected to begin at Santiago immediately. The preparations with which they have been [illegible] could have and no doubt would have [illegible] with the Spanish [illegible] fortifications at Santiago [illegible] to be based on military knowledge of the plan under which the [illegible] fighting. The greatest concession [illegible] would make towards [illegible] was to say that possibly [illegible] would be detected some earthworks [illegible] passed them, with his shells.

[illegible] confidence he had made to the [illegible] for the harbor.

[illegible] know, however, [illegible] Santiago [illegible] the land and in command of the Santiago [illegible] augmented force, that the Santiago [illegible] may be looked for. The [illegible] expected, too, notwithstanding [illegible] that troops have not yet [illegible] Tampa, as was earlier [illegible] the war department, his [illegible] The insurgents are known to be in force in the neighborhood of Santiago and through Capt. Dorst, the navy department not only has been in communication with them, but also has [illegible] them with good weapons and [illegible] ammunition. The leader of the best Cuban generals, Garcia, is [illegible] distant from Santiago only several [illegible] it is possible Sampson feels sufficiently strong with their support to [illegible] the assault by sea upon this [illegible] without waiting for the arrival of the United States troops. The trend of the news that [illegible] Washington from unofficial sources during the afternoon all went to support the belief that there is some ground for the expectation of the officials that important information may be expected shortly.

SPAIN PROTESTS.

The Spanish government made a protest to the British authorities against the sale of Canadian coal from British Columbia to Santiago, California and San Francisco for the use of Admiral Dewey's fleet at Manila and also against the shipping of coal from Nova Scotia to Atlantic ports for use by the United States warships operating in the West Indies.

In view of the ruling by the British government that coal was contraband of war this protest by Spain might have caused considerable embarrassment, as the Canadian coal is considered by the navy department authorities to be a superior article for the use of our ships. It is only a short distance from the British North American coal fields to San Francisco and the Nova Scotia coal fields are also easily accessible to Atlantic ports. It is understood, however, that Spain's protest has not proved of any avail. The subject was referred to the Canadian authorities who, upon investigation, learned that the coal shipments both from British North America and from Nova Scotia were in the ordinary course of commerce transactions.

They were made by private parties in Canada to private parties in the United States. Whether the coal subsequently passed into the hands of the United States government for use by the American navy was held to be outside of the province of the British and Canadian authorities. It is probable that any direct sales to the navy department would have been stopped, as these would have been manifestly a breach of the neutral attitude maintained by the British government and its colonial possessions.

NOTHING ABOUT PEACE AT WASHINGTON.

If the Queen Regent of Spain has instructed Senor Castillo to ask the powers to interfere for peace, that movement has not yet taken any form at Washington, either at the state department or at any of the foreign embassies.

Among diplomatic officials it is thought to be quite possible that Spain is feeling her way toward securing peace, but it is not believed this will meet any active assistance from the great powers. As one leading diplomatic official said today, Spain finds herself in the same condition of isolation that France was in in 1870-71. At that time M. Thiers, afterward president, went from capital to capital seeking to secure the cooperation of Europe with France, but his mission was a failure. The mission of Castillo is said to be like that of M. Thiers, and the diplomatic officials believe it will meet with the same fate. It is known that Spain has counted most on arousing the activity and interest of France, but it has been unsuccessful. The French officials here have not heard of any negotiations for many weeks past, indicating that the authorities at Paris have not taken up the proposition of Senor Castillo for intervention in behalf of peace.

[illegible] AT [illegible]

New York, June 2. The World's Port au Prince special says that the American fleet has again attacked Santiago and that 3,000 insurgents are attacking the city on the land side.

UNSUPPORTED BY EVIDENCE.

Key West, Fla., June 2—3.20 P. M. The judge's report in the case of the charges brought by Cadet Jones against deputy marshals and others will find the charges unsupported by any evidence.

RESTORMEL RELEASED.

Key West, Fla., June 2—3.20 P. M. In the circuit court today the British steamer Restormel, captured by the auxiliary cruiser St. Paul of Santiago de Cuba on May 25, and whose cargo of coal intended for the fleet of Admiral Cervera, was condemned yesterday, was released.

A BIG FIRE.

Bombay, June 2. A conflagration at Peshawera, which was mastered for 24 hours, has destroyed four thousand houses, doing damage to the amount of about four crores of rupees, about $20,000,000. This is supposed to be the record fire of India.

BLOODY FIGHT GOING ON.

New York, June 2. A special to the Evening World dated Port au Prince Hayti, says that the United States fleet renewed the attack upon Santiago de Cuba this morning. The people of Santiago, it is added, are momentarily in fear of an attack from the land side, where there are said to be 3,000 insurgents.

A later despatch says: "It is reported from Santiago that the rebels have attacked the city in three columns, and that a bloody fight is going on."

DREADFUL DESTITUTION.

(Copyright by the Associated Press.)

Cape Haytien, Hayti, June 2—9.50 P. M. No direct news has been received here today from Santiago de Cuba, except a reiteration of the reports of the dreadful destitution of the inhabitants there. It is stated that now even the officials are unable to procure a normal supply of food.

NOT CONFIRMED.

Port au Prince, June 2, 9.20 P. M. No fresh news has been received from Santiago de Cuba this afternoon. The report of an attack upon the city by the insurgents is not confirmed and appears to be without foundation.

SHOWED THE WHITE FEATHER.

Transport Florida Returns With an American Who is Charged With Desertion.

Tampa, Fla., June 2. The transport Florida, which left here over two weeks ago with one of the largest Cuban expeditions for the arming and reinforcement of the Cuban army ever sent out from Tampa, returned here today.

Confined on board with the charge of desertion against him is an American who enlisted in the Cuba volunteers, who were sent on the Florida, but who, according to Capt. Silver, who piloted the expedition, at the last moment, when all the supplies had been landed and the volunteers were ready for their march into the interior, showed the white feather and had himself on board the transport.

The man's name is said to be Tate. He lives in Tampa. He was not discovered until some time after the Florida had left Point Blanco, where the landing was made.

Tate in defense of his action told Captain Silver that he had led a man on shore and dare not stay with the volunteers for that reason. The officers place no confidence in this statement, however, but believe that the appearance of insurgents was what the expedition and the stories of privation and hardships they told took all the fighting out of Tate.

What action will be taken in his case has not yet been decided. The main feature of the Florida expedition has been published, but additional details were learned today from Capt. Silver and Capt. Dorst, who had charge of the expedition.

Although Spanish soldiers were within three miles of the landing place and two Spanish gunboats were only five miles away absolutely no trouble was experienced in landing the stores.

The work of paying of the troops at Tampa was commenced today. Over $500,000 will be distributed in the next two or three days by eight paymasters who are here.

[illegible] WITH [illegible]

Vote on the Great Issue Expected to be Taken in the Senate To-day.

Washington, June 2. When the Senate adjourned this evening the war revenue measure, so far as the finance committee is concerned, was completed, with the exception of the bond provision and the amendments proposed by the Democrats in lieu of the bond paragraph.

While no agreement was reached fixing a time for the taking of the final vote upon the bill it was the expressed opinion on both sides of the chamber that a vote would be taken tomorrow before adjournment.

Mr. Allison (Rep. Ia.) in charge of the measure, announced that he would ask the Senate to remain in session tomorrow until a vote was reached. All of the committee amendments except those noted were agreed to this afternoon.

Several motions were made to amend them, but the efforts were unsuccessful.

Mr. Butler (Pop. N. C.) led the floor for three hours and a half this afternoon. Within 15 minutes after he began to speak he brought on a general political engagement which lasted for more than hour. The debate, which was heated and at times decidedly personal, turned upon the amount of money spent by the Republican managers in the presidential campaign of 1896. Senators on both sides were brought into the debate and much feeling was manifested.

SENATE IN DETAIL.

Mr. Gallinger and Mr. Allen followed in a heated colloquy over the resolution introduced by the latter providing for an investigation of the methods of the various parties in the last presidential campaign.

The former, who is a member of the committee to audit and control the contingent expenses of the Senate, to which the resolution was referred, said he was willing to go into the investigation at any time, but no proof has been presented to the committee that that was necessary. He pointed out that the other two members of the committee had supported the same presidential candidate in 1896 as had Mr. Allen, and that he ought to labor with them if he desired action upon his resolution. Mr. Allen indicated that Mr. Gallinger was endeavoring to escape responsibility by attempting to load it upon the shoulders of others.

Mr. Teller (Silver Repl. Colo.) in the course of a brief but heated statement that the charges made by Mr. Butler were believed by the people and ought to be investigated by the Senate, declared that it was notorious that the Republican party had spent more money in the campaign of 1896 than it had spent in all previous campaigns since 1860. He added that the party had ever employed methods in its campaign as corrupt as were the methods of the Republican party in that campaign and that such methods were a menace to our form of government. He would be glad, he said, to give up three months of the hot weather in discussing such an investigation as was provided for by the resolution of Mr. Allen.

Mr. Gallinger replied that he was willing to enter upon the investigation as soon as Mr. Teller could induce his political colleagues to take action. He directed attention to the fact that the committee has no power of subpoena, and Democrat, Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic committee, Mr. Jones of Nevada, member of the Populist party, and himself, a Republican.

Mr. Chandler said he had directed attention to the charges of the large use of money by the Republican campaign managers in 1896 that had induced the resolution of Mr. Allen had gone to its death on the fourth of last March. "Notwithstanding the fault of the Gallinger family, shortsightedness and fault of the New Hampshire family, but, I add, also through the fault of the Jones family, Mr. Allen's resolution was allowed to die."

Mr. Allen said he was willing to have the resolution go over until tomorrow.

Mr. Gallinger said he was willing to have the resolution go over until tomorrow if the Senate would remain in session until it was disposed of.

Mr. Allison said that as the bill was now complete so far as the committee was concerned, except as to the bond provision and the substitutes offered for it, he would be glad if an arrangement for a final vote could be effected.

He believed that the bill could be disposed of tomorrow.

Mr. Jones (Dem. Ark.) had no doubt that a final vote on the bill would be reached tomorrow, but objected to an agreement.

Mr. Allison then gave notice that he would ask the Senate to remain in session tomorrow until the bill was completed and passed.

Mr. White (Dem., Cal.) offered an amendment levying a tax of one quarter of one per cent. upon the gross receipts of every person, firm or corporation operating sleeping cars on railroads. In offering the amendment he said: "This amendment will permit the payment of a part of the war burdens by the sleeping car companies. They have long been desirous of contributing to the government's expense, but could not because of the lack of necessary legislation. Such a tax as I propose will not fall I fancy, upon the companies."

After agreeing to meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow the Senate at 5.25 P. M. went into executive session and shortly afterwards adjourned.

THE HOUSE.

Washington, June 2. The House practically without debate passed today the urgency deficiency bill providing for emergency expenses of the army and navy departments incident to the war. It was based upon estimates received from the departments and carries items contemplated in the Philippine expedition and the early movement upon Cuba.

HOUSE IN DETAIL.

Mr. Cannon, from the committee on appropriations, presented an urgent deficiency bill to supply deficiencies in the appropriation for the army and navy establishment for the present fiscal year, the appropriations to be available until Dec. 31, 1898. In committee of the whole, Mr. Cannon explained the presentation of the measure.

Included in it he estimated the appropriations already made on account of the war and likely to develop an essential helping the first six months of the coming fiscal year to $50,000,000. In response to a question from Mr. Dingley, Mr. Cannon said the war would cost approximately $600,000,000, provided it should continue one year. A suggestion from Mr. Fitzgerald, (Dem., Mass.) that books should be provided for the troops at Camp Alger precipitated a discussion upon the conditions which exist there. Such expressions as Mr. Grosvenor, (Rep. Ohio) and Mr. Livingstone (Ga.) discussed upon the necessities of soldiers undergoing in the process of hardening what seemed grave hardships compared with conditions in the which they were accustomed at home. They drew comparisons between the present conditions and those existing in the civil war, showing that the present conditions are better.

OFFICERS AND MEN ABOARD THE OREGON DESERVE MUCH CREDIT.

Washington, June 2. The navy department today made public the following extract from a report to the department from Capt. Clark, of the Oregon, under date of the 12th of last May, around the two continents:

"It is gratifying to call the department's attention to the spirit aboard this ship in both officers and men. This spirit can be described by referring to incidents such as that of the engineer officers in volunteering to remain in the engine room after being carried out of it, when the high speed was to be made, to the attempt of men to return to the fire room after being carried out of it insensible, and of the fact that most of the crew showed working by watches for a fortnight, at Sandy Hook, preparatory to leaving their homes and they could get the ship coaled and ready to sail from 8 o'clock in the morning of February 25 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon of March 1, when the sale of liquor within the camp has been absolutely prohibited.

ORDERED TO INVESTIGATE THE SANITARY CONDITIONS.

Washington, June 2. In consequence of numerous and repeated complaints against the healthfulness of Camp Alger, near Falls Church, Va., the secretary of war has given personal orders for a thorough and impartial investigation of the sanitary conditions of the camp and its surroundings. He has intrusted this work to his military aide, Major Geo. G. Hopkins, of the volunteer army, who has a considerable experience in the field during the civil war. One of the principal complaints against the camp are that the water supply is insufficient and of bad quality and that the drainage conditions are not good. The soldiers to make a trial of the report of the army board shows these complaints to be well founded. The camp will be abandoned in favor of a more healthful site. The latest arrival in camp was the 20th Massachusetts, 653 strong, late last night.

THE WAR REVENUE MEASURE.

Mr. Gallinger (Dem.) vigorously criticised the war department for allowing but seven days in which to receive bids for supplies. He declared there was justice only being done by the south and Kentucky, Tennessee in discriminating in favor of manufacturers of other sections.

The reading of the bill at length proceeded and it was passed upon without division.

A number of bills affecting the city of Columbia were passed and at 5.50 o'clock P. M. the House adjourned.

TO MAIN A REGIMENTS AT MAXIMUM STRENGTH.

Boston, June 2. Gov. Wolcott found waiting a strong memorial addressed to himself and the general court urging the adoption of a system of recruiting with a view of instruction for training recruits and of maintaining the regiments in the United States service from this Commonwealth at their maximum strength. The memorial further urged that the Bay State soldiers in the service of the United States receive from this state $1 a month while in that service.

The memorial does not refer to the recent calls for troops, which have been arranged by the war department to fill the regiments to the maximum, but it is intended to provide for the future by building up a reserve of men and training them as soldiers against future calls. The inevitable losses of service in a sickly climate will make other calls necessary. But, just when it is hoped the romance and glory of this war will have faded out and the dread of yellow fever will have become real, enlistments about may be difficult to raise unless by appealing to patriotic motives and appealing to the pressure for wooding out new regiments, thus repeating the mistake of the last war.

The signers are well known men who took active part in the war of the Rebellion. The memorial was presented to the governor by a committee consisting of Gen. Howard Stevens, Gen. F. A. Osborn, Gen. H. S. Russell, Gen. A. A. Ryder, Col. Albert Clarke, Col. J. H. Hill, Major W. H. Turner and Capt. J. A. Fox.

The signers and advocates of the measure suggested will meet at the American House at 4 o'clock next Monday, the object of the meeting to collect the support of the public in the movement.

WILL MAKE A TRANSPORT OF HER.

Halifax, N. S., June 2. The steamer Alpha, hence for Victoria, B. C., has arrived at Coronel, Chili.

This steamer was despatched from here for chartering in the Klondike trade but the war developments make it possible that the steamer will be transferred to the United States government for Pacific transport. The Alpha was formerly a subsidized mail steamer between Halifax and Bermuda and was fitted under security requirements for the movement of British troops, which work she frequently performs. The owner of the steamer, W. A. Black, is now on the road to San Francisco to meet the Alpha there.

A CAMP OF 75,000 MEN.

New York, June 2. A despatch from Washington to the Evening World says: It was determined today to place 75,000 troops at Chickamauga, which is to be made a permanent camp.

Secretary Alger today gave orders today to prepare the camp for that number of men. Chickamauga Park, being too small for a camp of the size demanded, the park commission was authorized to leave additional ground. This will be the largest camp in the United States, if not all the troops mustered in under the second call will be sent there for equipment, organization and drill. The troops will be divided into three army corps.

ARMY AFFAIRS ACTIVE.

Tampa, Fla., June 2. With the establishment of German army headquarters at Tampa and with Maj. Gen. Miles on the ground personally directing the movements, army affairs here have again taken on considerable activity, although no embarkation of troops has as yet taken place from this point.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles with several members of his staff today made a tour of inspection of the various regular and volunteer camps around Tampa. At the state volunteer camp Gen. Miles reviewed a brigade drill. Col. Leonard Wood's volunteer regiment of cavalry, better known as "Roosevelt's rough riders," arrived here tonight and bivouacked in the city.

This regiment has been officially designated as the first United States volunteer cavalry.

BRITISH SUBJECTS AS PRISONERS.

London, June 2. The foreign office officials say they have instructed Mr. Alex. Goltan, the British consul at Havana, to see that the English correspondents arrested in Cuba receive their rights as British subjects. At the same time the foreign office people admit that the English newspaper men have no status defined by international law and that they are obliged to take their chances in entering forbidden territory. Influential relatives of Mr. Whigham, who was arrested with Mr. Robinson in Cuba, are interesting themselves in his case.

NEW APPLICATIONS RECEIVED.

Boston, June 2. Inspector General Carter received three new applications for provisional militia companies today. Two were from Lawrence and one from Lowell. The signers were largely men who have had previous training in the militia. One of the Lawrence petitions is signed by an old member of the Eighth regiment, while the Lowell petition is made up mostly of Sixth regiment names.

SICK AND WOUNDED ABOARD.

Key West, June 2—2.50 P. M. The hospital ship Solace sailed for New York last night having on board 90 sick and wounded soldiers and marines from the hospital steamer. The patients will do better in a cooler climate and the Key West hospital room is likely to be all needed as soon as the forward movement begins.

A DIPLOMAT IN TROUBLE.

Washington, June 2. The recent publication in a few newspapers of vague charges against a member of the diplomatic corps here that he was aiding Spain by sending information through sales is now being quietly investigated. The matter is expected to take an official form in the near future.

Representative Alexander, of Iowa, is the great-grandson of the once famous Darrie Lyon, who represented three different States in Congress and served under Thomas Jefferson as President.

THE FIGHT IN THE SHALLOWS.

(Copyright 1898 by Associated Press.)

On board the Associated Press despatch boat Dandy, Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 1, (via Kingston, June 2, 7 A. M.). For another yesterday afternoon the Massachusetts, Iowa, New Orleans and Vixen of Commodore Schley's squadron exchanged shots with the Spanish fleet under Admiral Cervera and with the land batteries marking the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, behind which the Spanish fleet is hidden.

The engagement is the first that has taken place between the two naval forces, and was but a prelude to serious work in the latter part of the week.

No attempt was made by the American commander, who, on the afternoon, shifted his pennant to the Massachusetts, to bring on a general engagement. It being merely the desire to locate the batteries in the bay above the harbor and to determine the location of the Spanish forts.

FORMING IN LINE.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Commodore Schley left the Brooklyn for the Massachusetts.

At 1 o'clock the signal to form column was hoisted on the Massachusetts and the New Orleans, Iowa, Vixen fell in in the order named.

The Massachusetts steamed slowly until about five miles west of the harbor entrance, when she turned in towards the shore and when about 2000 yards out, she turned about and bore down on the harbor, the New Orleans being close up and the Iowa half a mile behind. The flagship gradually increased her speed and she was soon running through the water at the rate of 16 knots an hour. She drew closer and closer to the battleships.

When she had passed the harbor entrance by two hundred yards a great cloud of white and yellow smoke burst from her two 13-inch guns in her after turret, and two shots swept over the hill, one of them striking the Spanish flagship Cristobal Colon full and fair as she lay at her anchorage, and the other falling close alongside.

The two guns in the forward turret were then fired.

All the shore batteries took up the challenge and began a rapid fire on the Massachusetts.

HER SHOTS MAKE TROUBLE.

But she was soon beyond their range, and the batteries thereupon turned their guns on the New Orleans. This vessel had been directed to pay attention to the batteries. She had been ordered to draw their fire as much as possible and she obeyed the instructions to the letter. Her first shot located a large battery on the hill above the Morro. It threw straight into the fort and must have caused much damage, as a great cloud of dust and debris rose as the shell burst. A couple more shots sent part of the walls of Morro flying into the air, and then the New Orleans confined herself to the batteries, her fire being rapid and extremely accurate. Every shot she fired made trouble for Spain.

The Iowa came next and like the Massachusetts devoted her attention to the ships lying within the harbor, her 12-inch shells ploughing the water fly around that part of the harbor in which the Cristobal Colon lay. The latter, however, was not seriously damaged, and kept up her fire still long after all the American ships had steamed out of range.

After the Iowa came the little Vixen which apparently had no business where battleships were being sent. Yet she rendered more than the Iowa did a few days following a similar order, and when at the proper time she let fly with her one six-pounder and sailed away, proudly conscious of having done her best.

After the Vixen had passed the forts the Massachusetts turned again to the westward, follows by the other ships in the same order, with the exception of the Vixen, which was ordered to keep out of trouble. The iron clads then bore down on the harbor once more. The flagship came in until less than 4,000 yards away from the shore, and then her shells sent Hobson to heaven up the waters of Santiago harbor. This time the shore batteries fired better aimed, and the Spaniards replied to the warships' fire in energetic fashion, but nearly all the shots from the batteries fell short. Then came the New Orleans once more, her 3-inch gun doing fearful work and twelve on the ground all around the batteries in the most savage manner.

RAISED THEIR MUZZLES AND BLAZED.

The Spaniards dropped seven shells close to the Iowa, as she came by for the second time, sending a stream of shells into the harbor as she did so. The Spanish ships with the exception of the Cristobal Colon were behind the hills and could not see the enemy, who threw shells around them with such rapidity that they knew the was somewhere on the other side of the hill and thus hopefully raised the muzzles of their guns and banged away. The result was what might have been expected. Their fire tore the bosom of the Caribbean sea, but it harmed neither a close.

After the Massachusetts had passed the point where she could fire into the harbor with advantage she turned to the open sea, the other vessels following her. That fight was over so far as the America was concerned. Spanish honor, however, demanded that some further destruction of gunpowder be made and the ships second and the batteries roared long after the American vessels were out of range. The affair then became follows, as Spanish shots fell 2 and 3 miles from the ships at which they were aimed. Such gunnery was never seen. One Iowa man with a basket of bricks would be capable of as much destruction as the Spanish seemed capable of creating. Not an American vessel was struck and but a sailor injured, although fully 300 shots were fired by the Spaniards, the American firing half over one-fourth of that number in return.

It is likely that the latter part of the week will see more serious work. The volcanic cyclone Vesuvius is coming near to explode, the triple row of mines down and an attempt will be made by extending across the channel. Meanwhile With these out of the way Commodore Schley will sail into the harbor for a death grapple with the fleet and batteries.

SEND DEPUTY TO INVESTIGATE.

New York, June 2. Domingo Mendez Capote, vice president of the Cuban republic, arrived here from Philadelphia today. He visited Cuban headquarters where he met a number of newspaper reporters with whom he talked freely.

Senor Capote said that he wished to thank the American press for the stand it had taken in behalf of Cuban insurgents and that the Cuban people and the government were deeply grateful for the support given by the American people and for the action of the nation in coming to their support.

Continuing, he said: "My mission is not a public one. All public acts relative to the situation between the United States and the Cuban republic will continue as heretofore to be conducted by Gen. Palma. He has the thorough confidence of our people, who have a high appreciation of what he has done.

"I do not come here to negotiate a loan. I came to consult with Gen. Palma on a matter which does not concern questions of public interest. I have no present intention of calling upon President McKinley, although I probably shall make a call upon him before I return. How long I shall remain here I cannot say at this time, but shall make my stay short as possible."

SYMPATHIES WITH SPAIN.

(Copyright 1898 by Associated Press.)

Managua, Nicaragua, May 28. A large majority of the middle aged and old men, natives of Nicaragua, although courteous in their manner plainly show that their sympathies are strongly with Spain in the war with the United States. On the other hand, a large number of the young men, again the natives, are outspoken in their desire for the success of the United States, and rejoice at every advantage of the American warship. Some of them are writing articles for the local newspapers favoring and applauding the United States. Among them is Senor Adolfo Vivas, associate editor of El Commercio, a daily paper in this city, a writer of force and candor.

All the German subjects are strongly in favor of Spain. In most cases English subjects show a disposition favorable to the United States, but with an eye to the hereafter, they are leaning on their supposed friendliness in the effort to get control of the route for a canal across Nicaragua.

THREE DEATHS REPORTED.

Chickamauga National Park, Ga., June 2. Three deaths were reported from the camp hospital today. Corporal Clarence E. Stewart, Co. M, 8th Mass., of Somerville, died this morning at 2 o'clock of pneumonia; John A. Riley, private Co. M, first District of Columbia, pneumonia; W. C. STILL DOUBTING THE WHEREABOUTS OF CERVERA.

London, June 3. Yesterday's news and that which comes this morning has brought no fresh feature into the situation except increasing mystification as to whether Admiral Cervera is really at Santiago de Cuba.

The Madrid correspondent of the morning papers made the point that the persistence with which Senor Sagasta and Captain Annon, the minister of marine, assert Cervera's presence there, is a mere attempt to mislead the enemy. On the other hand it is argued that Admiral Cervera could not be in a safer place, and that if Admiral Cervera could succeed in entering another West Indian harbor and thus employ two American squadrons in the work of blockading Spain's policy of delay would be assisted.

London opinion leans to the theory that Admiral Cervera escaped from Santiago harbor either before Sunday, of necessity under cover of the torpedo manoeuvres Sunday night.

In any case it is held that Admiral Sampson will soon take steps to solve the mystery finally, so far as Santiago is concerned.

HELD HIM UP.

The Robbers Arrested.

Nashua, N. H., June 2. Early this morning while Henry Burns, of Milford, was riding on a bicycle between Milford and Wilton, he was held up and robbed of the bicycle and other valuables, by two men. Allen claims that Haverhill is his home and Wilson says he resides at New Ipswich.

Both men were held in the superior court in $800 bonds each on a charge of highway robbery.

ALGER'S ALLEYNE.

Exciting Time at Chickamauga In Which Maine Soldiers Were Principals.

COL. KENDALL PROMOTED.

A special to the Boston Globe from Chickamauga gives a story full of interest here, as the H. P. Lynch referred to is supposed to be Hugh P. Lynch, of Bangor, and the Ruby is believed to be the colored pitcher who played on the Bangor's years ago. It is as follows:

Chickamauga Park, Ga., June 1. A New England man was nearly lynched in the camp of the 2nd Kentucky volunteers and was saved from a shameful death by Col. E. H. Gulther of that regiment.

William A. Ruby, a colored private in Co. A of the First Maine, is the man who came near being hanged.

The 1st Maine established its camp yesterday morning just west of the 2nd Kentucky, and, according to the Kentucky people, Ruby, accompanied by two other men of his regiment, attempted to cross their guard line, and were prevented from doing so.

Ruby, it is claimed, made a vigorous protest and attracted considerable attention. At noon today Ruby, with privates H. P. Lynch of Co. C and E. L. Bedell of Co. A, attempted to cross the lines at the same point, but were halted.

The men protested the halt, and claimed that they be allowed to proceed. A war of words followed, and other members of the Kentucky regiment began to gather around.

Their prejudice against the colored man was aggravated by Ruby's remarks, and one of them suggested that they hang the man.

Some one quickly procured a rope and was joined by a score or more of his comrades. One of them climbed up a tree, and the rope was thrown to him and he placed it over a limb.

Meanwhile Ruby was being hustled to the tree.

His comrades in the Maine camp on the hill heard the uproar and hurried to the scene.

Just at this moment Col. Gulther, Lieut. Col. Whipple, Maj. Hetburn, Allen and Owens, Lieut. Gulther's son of the colonel, and other officers of the 2nd Kentucky, made their way into the center of the mob, while was in the time excited to a high pitch and was yelling "Hang him, hang him."

COURT MARTIAL ORDERED.

Above the din was heard the command "Attention!" from Col. Gulther. The soldier knows what that means, and the infuriated Kentuckians were checked.

It was only for a moment, however, for scarcely had the command been given when Private Lynch is alleged to have approached the colonel, who wore a sweater with nothing to indicate his rank and to have applied a vile epithet.

Lieut. Gulther's revolver was out in a second to resent the insult. Other officers also drew their weapons, and Col. Gulther, rendering Lynch's sword, grappled him, and threw him, at the same time ordering his men not to shoot.

An armed guard was called and Ruby, Lynch and Bedell under its protection were marched to regimental headquarters, while a line of armed pickets was strung between the company streets and headquarters.

Capt. Dow, Co. A, 1st Maine, and Lieut. Col. Morton of the same regiment, formerly of the 20th infantry regular army, appeared upon the scene.

Ruby was full of fight, and was it is alleged, insolent to his own regimental officers, even telling his own captain to take his hands off him.

Lieut. Col. Whipple ordered the man jacked and tagged, but his own officers begged that they be allowed to imprison him in their own regimental guardhouse, and the three men were marched under a heavy guard outside the Kentucky lines.

Charges of insubordination and abuse of superiors were filed against Ruby, and inciting to mutiny against Lynch and Bedell. The latter was proved innocent by Col. Gulther and his release was ordered.

The case was called to the attention of Gen. Compton, who ordered a court martial, and appointed Capt. Sweeney of Co. F, 2d Kentucky, to be judge advocate. The trials of Ruby and Lynch will be held tomorrow.

Every officer and man in the 1st Maine from Col. Kendall down, regrets the incident. None of the officers cared to talk about the affair pending the court martial proceedings, when what extenuating circumstances there will be brought out.

The 1st Maine is assigned to the 3d brigade, 2d division, 5th army corps. Col. Kendall is temporarily in command of the brigade, which is composed of the 1st Maine, 52d Iowa and 1st Mississippi.

GUILTY OF SHOPLIFTING.

Alfred, Me., June 2. James E. Sullivan, alias James Brown, of Lawrence, Mass., John McCarty, John Carey, of Lynn, Mass., with Reggy and Pat Moriarty, also from Massachusetts, were tried and found guilty in the superior court today of shoplifting in the store of George Banger, of Kennebunk, on Dec. 15, 1897. Massachusetts officers were present and testified that all the men had criminal records. Sullivan was sentenced to five years and Carey to three years in the Thomaston State prison.

Congressman Eddy is so conspicuously plain looking that a beggar who asked him for a quarter in Washington the other day and got it returned it after a good look at the Congressman with the remark: "I'll be hanged if I'll take your money; go and buy yourself a square meal and I'll strike someone else."

The German Emperor intends to remodel large portions of the old royal castle in Berlin, to make it habitable. The Emperor's desire is to be able to offer a comfortable abode to his guests at festival occasions, which have recently been marked in various Berlin hotels. It is believed that the change will be a great economy to the imperial exchequer. In the ten years of his reign Emperor William has caused a large amount of alterations to be made in this vast old structure, and has spent large sums on it. For a simple investigation of the strength of the facade preparatory to making other alterations this is said to have spent $18,000.

Assistant Secretary Van Ingle introduced a time clock into the treasury Department recently and some miscreant stuffed it full of cayenne. One of the Senators always greets Mr. Vanderlip's side by asking what is the clerk's bill for that day.

Cautious Man—"Were you able to sell the Billone mine?" Inquirer—"I asked the superintendent of the cemetery." The agent shook his head. "He was afraid the adjutant might get the full name of it." Inquisitively—"But hang it all, a man has got to die something." Cautiously—"Suppose I should be lost or stolen?"—Chicago Evening Post.

STATE JOTTINGS OF INTEREST TO ALL.

The railroad commissioners rendered decisions on several hearings Wednesday.

Upon the petition of the Bridgton & Saco River railroad for a change of location of their crossing in the town of Harrison, the prayer of the petitioners was granted.

The petition of the Boston & Maine railroad for permission to lay a track across Commercial street in Portland was granted.

The petition of the Limerick railroad company for permission to cross Sox street and the "Old County Road" in Rockland was granted.

Upon the petition of the Portland & Rochester railroad, asking that the crossing west of the Mousam river in Sanford be so changed that the highway will be under the track, the petition was granted, and the terms of the arrangement specified.

Advices from Camp Powers say that on evening recently Captain Crockett of Lewiston had his men up by the guard which he attempted to pass, until taps, claiming it belonged to another regiment to compare the man that he had a right to pass, for he was the post commander. The man thought old crowbait he had been instructed to let no one pass, so he wipe necessary to call the sergeant of the guard, who considered it to let the commander in. After he had crossed the guard line, Captain Crockett soundly rebuked the guard upon his duties in obeying orders. Since, W. A. Pratt on Wednesday that he never had been a member of a gang of men that took such interest in the drills than the Lewiston lot out during the forenoon. The drill consists of the common infantry drill at present.

In Lewiston there are about 4,000 families taking water from the public water system. There are 3,448 closets and 881 bath tubs. Three hundred stores have city water, and 111 offices. Thirteen saloons, 97 coffees, 18 stores, engines and 720 hand engines are held for. There are 1,02 sq. yards sidewalk and 6 public drinking fountains. There are 141 public fire hydrants, and 12 school houses supplied, while there are 276 private hydrants. Bates college has seven shower baths.

A gang of burglars appears to be at work in Lewiston and Auburn. Last Sunday morning Mrs. Elmira Garneau, living on Chestnut street, awoke in the night and found a man in her room. He was looking carefully along the top of a bureau, and in the semi-darkness and the sleepy condition of the woman she thought it was her husband from the next room. When she awoke in the morning her gold watch was gone and her husband had not been awake since 10 o'clock the night before, when he retired. Another woman on Main street missed a box of sweets and found her dining room window open. The authorities have the case in hand.

The launching of the twin lobster smack at the South Portland yards Thursday morning reminded the citizens of their celebrated launchings of years ago. Two locks in the 90s were launched the ships George Turner and the Corinthian which followed called many a men. Along in the 90s came the ship Bainbridge built for Capt. N. Orcutt, the brig Forest City built for Capt. Jas. Bain, ship White Sea, and barque William Wallace.

Along about this time were built brig Mary C. Mariner, Nat. Goodwin's brig Fortune, the well known ship Kentucky and the ship Portland, the latter being the property of Capt. Enoch McFadden, the ship Kate Dyer which after worth being many a gale was totally wrecked while entering the harbor of New York.

A notable launching early in the 90s was that of the gunboat Kiowa, built at the Dyer ship yard. It is recalled that when she struck the water her bows turned as if impelled by some unknown power with signal when supplied with engines she proved to be one of the finest vessels in the service of the government. She was the first to reach New Orleans in the attack on that place in the war of the Rebellion, running the fire of the forts and, though built for peace work, turned out to be a first-class sea boat. Just after leaving New Orleans she encountered a severe gale but came to port safe and sound. Coming down to the 70s there should be mentioned the tug George Forbes, schooner Maggie Ellen, yacht Vixa and the ferry boat Mary Libby.

Recently four members of a New Auburn family were ill with typhoid fever. Public interest prompted an investigation as to the cause. A sample of the well water was analyzed and later, upon cleaning out the well a dead rabbit was found in the bottom.

The city of Lewiston owns thousands of dollars worth of granite curbing, which has been placed along the streets with the promise of firm brick sidewalks. But the sidewalks never appeared, and the public has tramped through the mud for ages. Now the vengeance of the long suffering will fall on all who delay to fulfill their ancient pledges and make good walks.

Charles Stevens, a Lewiston waiter, wants a pension because the business was injured at the commencement of the war by the absence he took after he received a bogus draft notice.

The shipment of government shoes from the Ara Cushman Co. factory in Auburn has been begun. The order was received a week ago Monday and the first shoes are now well on their way to the front.

The Portland yacht club has voted to remit the dues of all members who have joined the army, navy or naval reserve, during their term of service.

The Machias Republican concedes declared for Martin for member of the state committee and the delegation from Pre-que Isle was instructed by a unanimous vote to support Ikon, T. H. Hall for member of the state committee.

Mr. Abbott, of New York, son of Rev. Lyman Abbott of that city, arrived in Camden Thursday with his family for the summer. They will occupy the J. W. Blanchester house on Order's hill, until their new cottage is completed.

Both rumsellers are doing a good deal of shaking and grotting because they have had a hint that a petition arrived in town Saturday and has been circulating collecting evidence to put before the grand jury at the August term of court.

The Biddeford women got tired of wading through the mud on a certain street in that city and getting no help from the men, who presumably wear rubber boots, thirty of them got up a petition to the selectmen, for a cross walk. The aldermen (?) received it, it not claiming that it contained not a man's name, judging all that the board see how gallant it could be by granting the petition, and this was done unanimously. Perhaps the much enduring women of some other Maine city may follow the plot.

Portland's dog, who prides herself on her skill in pulling trains, decided that it is all moonshine since the other day when in the street car she picked up a pair of lands that had the shoes of a dude only to discover that they were supended to a gentleman, whose present address is unknown.

The Bath Independent reveals the line when people were sold at auction in Maine, and mentions the case of three sisters—Peggy, Susannah and Elizabeth Eaton, who were sold under the custom that prevailed till 1820 of giving the town paupers at public auction. The Eaton girls above mentioned were bid off in 1811 to a farmer living in the western part of the town and were compelled to do field work which they continued to perform as long as they lived, though in later years they supported themselves principally by fagoting, living on a small farm between Sensel hill and the Old Union road, where they owned a nice pair of oxen, a cow and a lot of hens.

M'KENZIE BOUND OVER.

On the Charge of Murderous Assault.

On Thursday Deputy Sheriff Gould came from Patten with Medville McKenzie, who is charged with a murderous assault upon Charles Kelly, of Oldtown, at Samuel Harvey's camp, about 30 miles in from Patten. McKenzie was arrested at Houlton Tuesday night and was brought to Patten where he was arraigned before Trial Justice Daniel Scribner Wednesday afternoon and was bound over in the sum of $500 to the August term of the supreme court. He was defended by Don A. H. Powers, of Houlton, and County Attorney Bertram L. Smith was for the state.

The assault was committed on Wednesday afternoon, May 26 at 5 o'clock, at the Harvey camps at Trout brook. From the reports there had been a bad feeling between the two men for some time. On the day of the assault they had several spats, as the men themselves say, and had fought twice. After the second encounter Kelly went into the camp while McKenzie went and procured an axe.

Testimony showed that McKenzie stood at the door with the weapon in his hand and called for Kelly to come out, which he did. When he was outside of the door he was struck down by McKenzie, the axe near cf severing his leg from the body. Kelly was taken into the camp and the door was barred.

McKenzie chopped at the door and rushed to the side of the building and chopped down a part of a fence which was around the camp and began breaking the window. He was prevented from coming through the window by a boy with a rifle. He was finally pacified and stayed around the camp until the next forenoon, when he escaped in a canoe.

MOONLIGHT PARTY.

An Enjoyable Outing Planned for Saturday by the Niben Club.

As there will be a full moon on Saturday the directors of the Niben Club have thought it advisable to make that day an occasion for a general gathering of the members and their families at the club house at Bushaw.

All who ride bicycles are requested to meet at the Milford street entrance of the path at 2.30 o'clock and proceed in a body to the club house, and those going by carriages to be at the club house not later than 3.30 o'clock. There will be music for dancing, card playing and boating.

An old fashioned supper will be served at 6 o'clock, with beans direct from the club's new brick bean hole on the premises.

It is hoped that all members with their families will be present and make this an enjoyable occasion.

The directors have voted that the members may invite ladies of Bangor and vicinity to accompany them on the bicycle path and to be entertained at the club house. This will not give the privilege to those holding family or lady permit tickets.

Charming House Wedding at the Residence of Chief Justice Peters.

A wedding of much interest to a large circle of friends in this city and elsewhere was solemnized at the elegant residence of Chief Justice and Mrs. John A. Peters on Broadway at five o'clock on Thursday afternoon, when their younger daughter, Miss Annie Charlotte, became the wife of Mr. Prescott Hale Vose, also of this city. It was one of the most charming house weddings ever known in this city and was a very happy one. All previous fears of friends of the bride and groom of the beautiful character of the ceremony were realized. The arrangements were made with perfect taste and were carried out to perfection, giving much pleasure to all who were so fortunate as to be bidden to the interesting and happy event.

The house had been most beautifully decorated by Florist Sekenger, the effect being strikingly beautiful and artistic. The drawing room, where the ceremony took place, was transformed into a bower of beauty, choice flowers and green growth having been used in profusion to produce an impression which will long linger in the memory of all. The drawing room was one mass of flowers and green, the bay window at the front being banked with graceful palms, the pillars banked with pink and white roses, graceful relics of laurel and flowers between the two sections of the room giving a pleasing impression. At the bow window there was a wedding bell of beautiful Catherine roses beneath which the bride and groom stood. In the rear portion of the drawing room the musicians, Pullen's orchestra, were stationed behind a bank of palms and flowers. The dining room was also handsomely decorated with palms, flowers and green growth, and the bay was another evidence of taste and excellent taste in arrangement. The bankets were adorned with pinks and lilies, which were chiefly flowers. The floral display throughout the house was unusually beautiful and elaborate and was a rare pleasure to behold.

Owing to the recent death of Gen. Charles W. Roberts, an uncle of the bride, the plans for the wedding were changed from a church to a house wedding and the number of guests were limited in consequence.

Although the hour appointed for the ceremony was still early, the shades were drawn and the gas lighted, setting off the decorations of the house well. At the appointed hour the ushers adjusted the white ribbons from the bow window to the door opening into the hall and to the strains of the grand Mendelssohn wedding march the bride party entered the drawing room, the processional being in the following order: The ushers, Messrs. Harold A. Pitman, of Boston, and Andrew Peters, of Westboro, Mass.; the maid of honor, Miss Blanche Bruce Hilsare, and the best man, Dr. J. K. Phillips; the bride and groom. They were awaited by the officiating clergyman, Rev. Seth C. Beach, of the Unitarian church. The King's Chapel service was employed in consummating the marriage and it was impressively but happily carried out. A rice was used. At the conclusion the guests pressed forward to extend the warmest and heartiest expression of congratulation and best wishes for a happy future, the orchestra meanwhile playing the Lohengrin bridal chorus.

The gown of the bride was an elegant creation of the modiste's art and excited much favorable comment from the genteel guests. It was of heavy white satin, of train, trimmed with orange blossoms, which were also fastened to the chiffon veil. Her bouquet was of lilies of the valley and on her gown she wore the gift of the groom, a handsome hair circle of diamonds.

The maid of honor was very prettily gowned in white muslin over pink and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The best man and ushers wore boutonnieres of white pinks.

The gifts were displayed in an upstairs room and were highly admired. They included many elegant articles in silver, gold, cut glass and china, a large number of valuable testimonials. Among them was a warranty deed for the handsome residence at the corner of Essex and State streets, the gift of Chief Justice and Mrs. Peters to their daughter and where the bride and groom will reside. Some unusually handsome gifts were included in the large list.

During the evening Pullen's orchestra rendered choice music. Delicious refreshments were served under the direction of the caterer, Mrs. Latz.

The bride and groom left amid a shower of rice and best wishes for the 8 o'clock train for the West for a wedding tour of several weeks. Before their departure the bride threw her shower bouquet to the unmarried ladies present and the portion with the ring was secured by Miss Ellen R. Eaton of this city. The guests lingered for some time after the departure of the bride and groom and the occasion was a most happy one.

The bride is one of Bangor's most charming young ladies who has a large circle of friends and admirers won by her admirable qualities, sterling worth and mind and it is a matter for congratulation that she is still to reside in Bangor, which could ill afford to lose her presence. Socially and in charitable and other good works she has been held in high regard and the best wishes of all are extended. The groom is a man of the highest character and standing in the community, where he is so well known. He is one of Bangor's most prominent citizens among the younger business men and is a business man of experience.

Among the out of town guests who graced the occasion by their presence were the following: Mrs. Eugene Hale, wife of United States Senator Hale, of Ellsworth; Mrs. George Vose and Miss Vose, the mother and sister of the groom, of Milton, Mass.; Mr. George Nixon Black, Boston; Mr. Charles Brooks Pittman, Boston; Mrs. Thomas H. Rich, Lewiston, Me.; Miss Mary Roberts, Boston, Mass.; Mr. Coolidge S. Roberts, Cambridge, Mass.; Miss Catherine Livermore, Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. Henry Boardman, Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. S. H. CONTESTED PARTNERSHIP

Case Heard by Judge Burgess on Thursday.

In the Probate Court before Judge Burgess on Thursday, the day of the day was occupied with a hearing regarding the George E. Getchell estate. Joseph E. Chamberlain, who was associated with him in business up to the time of Mr. Getchell's death, claims that he was in partnership with Mr. Getchell and has the right to settle the partnership business.

On the other hand the administrator of the Getchell estate and the heirs claim that no partnership existed between Mr. Getchell and Mr. Chamberlain. After a full hearing in the matter the case was adjourned to June 16th, when the attorneys on both sides will submit written arguments to Judge Burgess.

ARRANGEMENTS GO ON FOR INVASION OF CUBA.

Washington, June 2. Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn of the war department today secured additional transports for the Cuban army of invasion. The swells the total number of vessels to over thirty, with a carrying capacity of nearly 30,000 men. The ships secured today will be sent to Florida ports, likely Tampa, as fast as practicable and prepared for service.

The vessels are the Comanche of the Clyde line, now at New York, capacity, 1,200 men; the Louisiana and the Knickerbocker, of the Cromwell line, one of which is at New York and the other at New Orleans, 900 men each; the Specialist and Unionist, belonging to a foreign line and which before the war sailed between Mobile and Porto Rico, estimated to carry 1,000 each. They are now at Mobile. The charter of the last two named vessels is subject to the granting by Congress of an American register for which the assistant secretary will ask that body.

Mr. Meiklejohn also announced that the Manitou, a small vessel now at one of the gulf ports, is ready for service and will proceed to Tampa immediately. Her capacity is 1,000 men.

The understanding at the war department is that up to this time none of the troops of the regular army, which it was announced would all this week have actually left the United States, and the officials express their regret at the time when the embarkation is to take place. The latest information received here is that Gen. Miles is still at Tampa.

Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn announced that the troopship Cottomb, designed for the second Philippine expedition, would arrive at San Francisco probably tomorrow. He said that the Ohio was also to go with the second expedition, and will reach San Francisco on Saturday or Sunday ready for her voyage, but not yet equipped. Meanwhile arrangements for the second expedition are being hurried forward and the officials had hoped that it will not be long before the five vessels which are to compose it start for Manila.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 2. In the second trial of Mrs. Geo. Atkinson, wife of Gov. Atkinson, on charge of forgery, and jointly indicted with J. P. Owens as accessory, Judge Blizzard today sustained the demurrer of the defendant which was argued yesterday and so far as Mrs. Atkinson is concerned she is temporarily released.

SUICIDE AT CAMDEN.

Rockland, Me., June 2. Miss Ella Heald, a Camden young lady, committed suicide by drowning Wednesday afternoon. Her body was found in the evening in a frog pond near her home. No reason can be assigned for the deed.

A FEW OVER 124,000.

Washington, June 2. Odds and ends of the mustering of the first volunteers called for by the President, some yet to be caught up, but to all intents and purposes the work has been completed.

Adj. Gen. Corbin announced tonight that nearly, over 124,000 men had been mustered in.

Iowa filled her quota today and the last of the Kentucky troops have been mustered and received their orders to move.

PRAISE FOR CERVERA.

Madrid, June 2—8 P. M. Despite the statements of the newspapers that Admiral Cervera was not present at the bombardment of Santiago on Tuesday, Capt. Aunon, the minister of marine, in an interview today declared that Cervera hoisted his flag on the Cristobal Colon in order to direct the Spanish operations. The success of which is primarily due to Cervera, who has given proofs of high strategic ability.

SPANISH VIEW OF BATTLE.

London, June 3. The Madrid correspondent of the Standard says: "The Madrid papers are much elated over another repulse suffered by the American fleets. According to official advices the forts and batteries at Santiago were unhampered; not a single Spaniard was killed or wounded and not a single shot struck the Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon.

"El Heraldo regrets that the Spanish fleet was not sent to the Philippines instead of to Cuba."

LITERARY NOTES.

The last finished literary work of William E. Gladstone was his tribute to the memory of Arthur Henry Hallam, the friend of his school days and thereafter until death. The final revision of the articles on the Vatican statesman's own handwriting was completed in November, 1897. Such a tribute from a man of 88, whose statesmanship has made a profound and enduring impression upon the civil history of the world, to a youth of 22 who died when 44 years in his grave, is probably unparalleled in literature.

Little, Brown & Co. publishers of Jeremiah Curtin's author and translator of "Quo Vadis," have discovered another book with the same title. This is the Bishop Hall of Wordsworth. The full title is "Quo Vadis? A treatise concerning Travell, as it is commonly undertaken by the Gentlemen of our Nation. London, 1617."

Literature is now found in abundance in many readers by the publication of W. D. Howells's "The Shadow of a Dream" in Harper's. Alternating with Henry James he will write criticisms and comment upon American publications. A strange couple of critics, indeed hardly, be mated.

The youngest person who has ever contributed a magazine article is author, David Ker, boy whose drawings are produced in the June Harper's to illustrate a sketch entitled "The Stage is a Child," by Louis E. Bogan. The author, who is interested in the development of the new science of infant psychology, begins his page with collection authentic records of spoken word in this mind development. The child studied was allowed to grow up as much as possible as his own nature in mind. He carried to extent and to wring as nature taught him, and almost from infancy he drew things he saw with a pencil or cut them out of paper. The article is full of amusement, and is, besides, an important addition to the science of observing children.

DIDY ITEMS.

The Duchess of Northumberland owns a shawl which formerly belonged to Charles X of France, and was quite forgotten from the top of Percy castle. Many thousand crystal shins were still good, and the warping lasted some years. The shawl measured eight yards square, but it is so fine that it can be compressed in the space of a large coffee cup.

One of the most interesting sights in Manila are the cigarette or cigar girls. About sunset every work day you may see coming out of a long low building near one of the bridges, and wend their way by twos and threes, many hundred women, clad in the simple but picturesque costume of the Indian, of all ages from 12 to 60, most of them having fine eyes, fair one figure, but homely faces.

"Sheerband is one of the arts that has never been lost. It is believed that it was practiced in Phoenicia before the Greek existed as a people, and possibly also at Babylon. Only in India is trace of it in China or Japan, primarily because the fine-named country has all, and the second until recently, opposed all manner of labor and time-saving devices.

"The hatching of fish eggs in China is accomplished by the use of unsuspecting hens. The spawn is placed in an egg shell and placed under the hen for a few days at the end of which time the contents of the shell are emptied into a shallow pool.

"The largest history ever published is "The War of the Rebellion," issued by Uncle Sam in 129 large octavo volumes of 1000 pages each, with a good deal atlas in 30 pages.

It is said that an attempt to calculate the value of the gold in the Hand district of the Transvaal has shown that there remains about 600,000,000 tons of alluvial, worth, say, $5,600,000,000.

General Passenger Agent Whitney of the Great Northern, a member of the committee appointed to investigate the path war with a view of some solution, seems no hope. He says there is no reason to believe the rate war will end, unless American lines are protected by the government. Canadian Pacific is violating the American law, according to a direct statement by the Interstate commerce commission.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

New Ticket Named for Voters of Pennsylvania at Nov. Fall Election.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 2. The Republican State convention met this afternoon and named the party ticket to be submitted to the voters as follows:

Governor, Col. William A. Stone; Lieut. Governor, Col. Louis A. Emery; secretary of the commonwealth, Joseph W. Latta; judge of the Superior Court, William W. Ross of Phila.; delegate at large to Congress, Galusha A. Grow, of Susquehanna; [illegible] A. Davenport, of Erie.

The last five were renominated. There was scarcely any opposition to the program for the work of the convention as outlined by Senator Quay and his lieutenants, those opposed to the nomination of Stone for the head of the ticket concerting themselves with the question of right to vote on Charles W. Stone. The vote was announced shortly after 5 o'clock. Quay adherents claim a majority of 15 more than necessary for a choice. The 103 votes cast for C. W. Stone represented combined strength with John Wanamaker, who provided a sensation by presenting a letter of withdrawal, in which he renounces the methods of the dominant Republican faction and urges his friends to support C. W. Stone.

Mr. Wanamaker's retirement from the fight came as a startling surprise. The withdrawal is interpreted to mean that he has placed himself in a position to run as an independent candidate if he so elects.

ALL CABLES WORKING.

CERVERA AT SANTIAGO.

London, June 3. The Standard's Madrid correspondent says: "At today's (Thursday) cabinet meeting the Queen Regent presiding, Duke Almodovar de Rio, the foreign minister, reported that all cables were working in the Antilles. A despatch was read assuring that Admiral Cervera was still in Santiago. Senor Sagasta denied the story of a night attempt by the torpedo boats against the American fleet.

"It is rumored that Capt. Aunon, minister of marine, has received a despatch concerning the state of Admiral Cervera's ships which has not been communicated to the press. Gen. Correa, minister of war, said:

"There is no doubt whatever that Admiral Cervera's squadron is at Santiago."

HASKELL RULES HIS DECISION.

Alfred, Me., June 2. In the York county supreme court today Judge Haskell filed his decision in the Kennard will case involving $100,000. He finds that the testator, Mr. Joseph Chadwick, of Exeter, N. H., 88 years of age, the only surviving sister of the testator, Benjamin Chadwick of Elliott, who died Sept. 29, 1897, leaving no issue, the heirs at law were nephews, nieces and their issue to whom one-third of his estate would descend under the statutes of this State.

He further finds that the petitioner, from accident or mistake and want of notice, without fault on her part, omitted to claim and prosecute an appeal within 20 days, as specified by the statutes, and has diligently and reasonably filed a petition for leave so to do. He considers that the petitioner asks to prosecute the appeal in good faith and that justice requires a revision of said decree in the premises, and therefore he finds and adjudges that the petitioner have leave to enter an appeal before this court upon filing the necessary bond.

Dining Room
Furniture

There are various reasons why the dining room should be replenished this season. The main reasons are that prices are lower than ever before and lower now than they ever will be again. Bangor being an inland city will be a retreat for many people this summer and your friends from the seaside are liable to repay your visits which you previously made them. A dining room well and neatly kept, moderately furnished, is one of the best welcomes outside of what is on the table, that can be given to a visiting friend or relative. We can sell you a set consisting of one settee, six chairs, a six foot oak dining table and an oak sideboard containing large mirror and other features for $20.00. Just think that over, only $20.00 for a combination of beauty, necessity and a sign of welcome.

Let the Door Open.

It appears from the Associated Press report published in another column that Commodore Schley was not asleep when the Spanish fleet went into Santiago de Cuba, but on the contrary that he purposely left the door of the trap open and several whole vessels were in such condition that he had to make some port, on fire. Once in the harbor Commodore Schley promptly returned with his squadron and has been on guard ever since, remarking, "They will be a long time getting home."

The department at Washington is still convinced that the report of the engagement has been exaggerated. It is supposed there that Commodore Schley fired some shots at the fortifications where work was going on, but important news is expected at any hour. The insurgents have been supplied with guns and ammunition, and it may be that they will co-operate with the naval forces in an attack upon Santiago without waiting for the United States troops. Should such a combination be formed the surrender of Santiago would soon follow. In the meantime the one thing to be depended upon is that Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley know what they are doing, and when the time ripe will strike a blow that will leave Spain in a hopeless condition so far as the prosecution of this war is concerned.

The Pope

There were not many of the Maine Populists at the State convention in this city Thursday, but while short on delegates the convention was long on oratory. Prof. Bateman was in command. In fact he constituted a large part of the show. The platform in addition to the usual Populistic doctrines did exactly what the Professor said it would do some time since, namely, declare "unalterable opposition to fusion in whatever guise it may appear." Then the Professor was nominated again as the candidate for Governor, and hours he turned over to ex-Mayor Gerry, of Ellsworth. After these preliminaries the Professor paid his respects to the Hon. Arthur Sewall, of Bath, who was on the ticket with Mr. Bryan in the last campaign. His references to the late Vice Presidential candidate were so vigorous that a waiting delegate by the name of Mr. Campbell, who lives in Boston, but claims a voting residence in Portland, attempted to reply. He was not with the Professor, however. He succeeded in saying some uncomplimentary things about the Professor, but that made no difference with the convention and the Boston-Portland gentleman was cut off in the most arbitrary manner. If the state convention affords a basis for calculation the Maine Populists are not entirely happy fusionists.

No Quarter.

One could fairly hear the water on the west side of the Penobscot raise last evening. The excitement ran so high in that section of the city that most people thought Commodore Schley had surely captured the entire Spanish fleet. There was plenty of war talk, however, but it was not a Spanish war. The following paragraph in the evening paper did the business:

Here, the stars squeezed to a mint Tom White and A. M. Robinson, Esq., who took seats along with every Aguinaldo and other BACKBEAT POPULIST.

Shade of Andrew Jackson! Think of classifying this trio as "backbeat populists." At last accounts the responsible editor was severely shotted up in that newspaper office, while the attacking party was undecided whether to storm the fortress or starve the occupants out. Bulletins will be issued every hour to-day.

An Immense Contract.

Nearly $40,000,000 of good Russian currency will flow into American coffers during the next year or two in payment for American-built vessels of war.

In addition to the recent contract signed between the Cramps and the Mexicoffee naval authorities, a similar contract, involving a like sum of money, will be signed in a few months between the same parties.

While one of the two contracts closed yesterday by Charles H. Cramp and his associates in Petersburg were learned by the public. In addition to the two large second-class battleships and one first-class battleship and one third-class cruiser, the contract calls for ten torpedo boat destroyers, to complete the fleet of this terrible type of craft of the south shores. The Cramps will have full swing in the building of these vessels. They will be finished throughout before leaving the yards, armed, armored and ready for fight.

In speaking of the immediate cause of the unusual activity on the part of Russia in naval increase Mr. Cramp said:—

"It is caused by the requirements of the new attitude she has assumed as a naval power in the Pacific Ocean. This attitude is in anticipation of the responsibilities which the completion of the Trans-Siberian railway and the consequent vast increase of her territory and power on the coast of Eastern Asia must entail.

"Russia has hitherto been shut out from the open sea. Her Baltic coast is ice-bound half of the year, the Black Sea is closed by the policy of the nations of Western Europe and her southernmost Pacific harbor, Vladivostock, is also frozen up at least two months in every year. But the new deal brings her to the open sea, and as the conditions in European waters must remain indefinite yet as they are now, it is easy to perceive that hence forth the sea power of Russia must be primarily in the Pacific Ocean.

"At the present moment, so far as ships, guns and men are concerned, England dominates the Pacific equal to Asia as completely as she does the channel of the Mediterranean. England has in those waters at this time twenty-six ships of various rates, including three first-class battleships, with a total displacement of 67,000 tons, and carrying about 6000 men, as against Russia's Asiatic fleet of sixteen ships with a total displacement of 48,000 tons and carrying about 5000 men.

"England is by no means the only naval power that Russia must meet in her development of a first-class navy in the Pacific. The absorption of Corea indicated her ultimable destiny of giving the Pacific coast of Russia down to the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude.

"Long before the programme was inaugurated by the recent extraordinary appropriation of $60,000,000 for the naval increase by Russia Japan will have really the position, as I pointed out in October last, a fleet of twenty-seven seagoing vessels, displacing over 200,000 tons, besides nearly 100 torpedo craft, all of the most modern construction and effective design."

Full details of the second contract which will be closed probably by autumn have not yet been made public. Enough is known, however, to indicate that the Czar's fondness for American built ships will lead to the expenditure of another twenty million dollars.

The new Russian work will not interfere with the contracts in hand at Cramps' yard. All ships under construction are being rushed to completion. The Japanese cruiser Kasagi is making rapid progress toward completion and will soon be ready for her trial trip. Three shifts of engineers are now engaged in testing her engines and about the end of this week the cruiser will go down the river for a preliminary trial of her engines. Much eager anticipation awaits her final official test of speed, for she is believed to be very fast.

The gunboat Dorothea, formerly the pleasure craft of the same name, has completed her transformation. Lieutenant Commander Barnett has been assigned to the command of the Dorothea, with Lieutenant Knapp as his executive officer.

The Dorothea now has all her guns on board, also her war paint on, and will go down the river to League Island to receive her ammunition, stores and crew before hurrying out to scenes of bellicose activity.

When morning awoke at Garland pond yesterday there was such a sight as is seldom seen on this pretty little lake. The open season of the law prohibiting the taking of fish from the lake opened at midnight and fishermen from miles around gathered in the early hours of the morning to fish for the speckled beauties that are known to abound in the waters of Garland pond so that as daylight dawned the pond was literally covered with boats containing fishermen, dotting here and there to find some favorite spot where they had been successful in times past. Sumner Chase, the photographer, who has quite a reputation as a fisherman, captured the largest string containing 12 beauties, while many others secured good strings of their favorite fish.

Misses Ella and Lizzie Kittredge are in Greenville today attending the Y. P. S. C. E. convention.

A novel proposition is advanced by a prominent member of the bicycle trade, who is now in New York. He takes the position that a bill should be passed for license every repair man on the same grounds that licenses for plumbers and horseshoers were demanded. He claims that the reason for the short score of wheels which have recently left the hands of incompetent repair men, who have done their work in such a manner that the rider was risking his life. The argument in favor of the licensing plumbers and horseshoers was that plumbers should be familiar with sanitary principles and that men was put at great risk by horses which should have proper care. Bicycles should know how to shoe horses. He claims that the argument apply to the man who takes upon himself to mend the bicycle, and that no one should be permitted to do bicycle repairing who has not served a rational apprenticeship, passed an examination and received a license. When asked if the same proposition did not apply to workers of all kinds the dealer said it might, but that he did not think it applied to shoes.

A remarkable incident was witnessed by wheelmen at Bedford avenue and Hall street, Brooklyn, at 11.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A rider collided head on with a horse and the horse fell down and expired. The wheelman was rendered unconscious by the shock, but the bicycle was little hurt. Unless an autopsy can be held it will be a perpetual subject for wonder with riders what killed the horse.

Shall the scorcher live?—Minneapolis Times.

Well, he won't live very long, unless he reforms, and puts his hulking corpus into a civilized attitude and ceases to invite the thunderbolts of the gods and the hisses of men. If you mean should he be permitted to live? certainly yes. Not that he is fit to breathe the air of earth. Not that his hulking corpus doesn't blot the daylight and invite destruction. He should be permitted to live simply with a view to prolonging his punishment. The longer he lives unrepentant, the more like a balloon full of bumps he looks, and the more cramps and aches will consume him. And, mark ye, reckless dismount mysteriously are punctured suddenly, vanish into thin air. You never hear of an old scorcher. They drop to pieces, beyond repair, and then, as a rule, they are compelled to haunt the boulevard and be run over by everything that comes along.—New York Sun.

According to well-known racing men, long-distance cycle racing has never prospered in this country until recently for the reason that so few riders know how to train for distance events. Jimmy Michael has brought about a big interest in middle-distance racing and it is clearly evident that the world's record in both training and competition differs radically from that of the American riders. The latter confess that Michael has introduced foreign ideas and racing methods in this country that are likely to be widely followed. Riders, who have had experience in racing matters admit that men who follow cycle racing cannot expect to figure conspicuously in both short and long distance races. They must make a choice between the two of the ride poorly in their competition events. The work that the distance racing man must undergo differs radically from the training work for sprint races. While in Europe it is felt that distance racing is now on the decline or at a standstill, hopes are held out that the various riders in this country who aspire to gain fame in twenty, twenty-five mile, and one-hour rides will follow the distance racing game systematically in order to produce some new records this year. An ex-champion rider who has retired from active participation in track races but who still follows racing matters closely makes the assertion that some of the fastest distance riders in the world could be turned out in this country if the men would only take up long-distance racing properly. By this he means that riders should follow a routine system on lines similar to those pursued by Michael in discussing training methods he volunteers the following advice to riders:

"Sam, on a lower gear than that used for middle-grand 50 practice never make the mark more nothing over twenty-two miles an hour, not play on up for any pace, that is set so long as that pace is not really distressing. If possible do not worry before or even in race. Regard the whole matter from the first training spin as a pastime. Do your best possible performance without serious distress. Always keep a sharp lookout for position, and if possible hang to the actual pacing machine. Do never be out of touch with the pacing machine, and if possible keep one of the faster men. Do not try to win a big race the first five miles. Spurt moderately if inclined, but never too excitedly. Do not be in a hurry. As regards gears I would advise one to train on 72 or 74 and race on 80 or 84. A rider's diet need be only wholesome and plain. Once the judicious competition gets a man fit for longer distance work considerably better than ordinary train the rider has speed and to increase his staying powers 300-mile road rides will do much, but they should be taken at a slow pace, about twelve miles per hour. Ordinary hills should be ridden slowly and steep hills walked. Return to the faith for the finishing touches an hour right before well devoted to spinning work, which, however, will be of better effect if alternated with evenings of long and steady distance riding."

ELLSWORTH NEWS.

A Change From the Old Time Log Drivers' Jamboree.

False Fire Alarms Rung In—News Notes of the Day of Interest.

[Special to Whig and Courier.]

Ellsworth, June 2. The gay river drivers who used to make the town lively years ago when the log drives were brought in are getting to be men of the past. The east and west branch drives came down this week and the logs have been in town for a couple of days, but no red paint has been splattered around and no much like the struggles from the Washington County railroad grew have the hundreds that few knew that the drives were in. Last evening, however, three roughs doing hard duty on the heavy went into the Franklin House and allowed a glorious jag to get the better of them. The proprietor didn't care to keep them in the hotel and they were escorted to the street by Officer Franklin shortly. One came but some distance ahead of the other two and when the first had arrived near the Main street corner the man exchanged signals, each giving vent to a short and somewhat subdued war whoop. Then there emerged from the shadows of the Main line blockhouse the street car conductor in the city marshal's uniform, who silently followed the couple in the rear until they, seeing him behind, turned into Water Bros' driveway. Here he brought them around and taking off of an axe handle he carried them to Water street where they took his advice and got out of sight in a boarding house. The officer was Mr. Donovan, who seems to mind his business about as well as any policeman the city has ever had.

Rev. David H. Yale took a party of young folks down to the steam dredge in his pleasure boat last night. The party was made up by Miss Bertha Giles. A pleasant voyage down the river and high courtesies in attention by the managers of the dredge made the event an enjoyable one.

Two Hancock county children have this week been christened Marshal Lewis. This name is all right for Dewey but when these infants get some years older there is sure to be a protest coming from them.

The county commissioners are in session at the court house this week.

Miss Louise Allen, has been elected editor in chief of the Ellsworth High School Leader with a capable board of assistant editors. The only issue to be published this summer will be gotten out this month.

Edward L. Smith, of the Bar Harbor Record, is gladdening the town with his sunny face today.

Mr. Eugene Gray, the five years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Carty, died Wednesday evening of heart disease. She has been ill for some weeks. The funeral will be held at St. Joseph's church Friday morning.

ALL PLEASED.

Pennsylvania Republican State Convention.

Warmth Kept Will draws in Favor of Stone.

Convention Hall, Harrisburg, Pa., June 2. The only semblance of contest in today's Republican State convention was over the head of the ticket. Col. William A. Stone, member of Congress from Allegheny, who five years ago was unknown outside of Philadelphia, was a good second, and Congressman Charles W. Stone, of Warren, brought up a good third. When the balloting closed, yesterday, Colonel Stone had received his friends claim Col. Stone was his choice. The Senator's friends rallied about the Allegheny aspirant, and just before the result of the convention was a foregone conclusion.

Mr. Wanamaker was the distinctly anti-Quay candidate, and his backers claim his vote represented a sentiment throughout the State the occupation of which the senior Senator is the friend. Charles W. Stone is a friend of the Senator and he declined to go into a combination with the anti-Quay forces.

Senator Quay did not attend the convention. He came here Monday night from Washington and was in conference all day and night with his lieutenants until 10 o'clock this morning when he started for the national capital.

Senator Penrose of Philadelphia stayed over until after the convention to look after the interests of his colleagues. Mr. Wanamaker remained at headquarters at the Commonwealth Hotel during the proceedings of the convention. Chas. W. Stone, too, was conspicuous by his absence from the convention hall. Wm. A. Stone was at the hotel and left the hall with his speech of acceptance ready. Not much time was lost in nailing up the ticket after Col. Stone's nomination. Senators S. J. M. McCarrell, of Harrisburg, and John Grady, of Philadelphia, withdrew from the contest of lieutenant governor last night. The latter in clear field to Senator J. P. S. Gobin, of Lebanon, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. Gen. W. Lyman, of Philadelphia, was nominated for secretary of internal affairs, Columbus A. Crow, of Susquehanna, and Samuel A. Davenport, of Erie, for Congressmen at large and Judge Wm. Porter, of Philadelphia, was nominated for Superior Court Judge.

The convention was called to order at 11 o'clock by State Chairman Elkins. The attendance was the largest since the convention of 1896, when the fight for Governor was between Geo. Wallace Delamater, of Meadville, and Daniel H. Hastings.

The galleries and rear of the stage were crowded with spectators.

Chas. B. Fisher, of West Chester, presented the name of Senator Penrose for temporary chairman. Nobody else was suggested and the Senator was selected by acclamation.

Senator Penrose in his speech spoke glowingly of Pennsylvania's part in the present war.

Frank W. Wheaton, of Wilkesbarre, was elected permanent chairman by acclamation.

The convention then proceeded to the election of a candidate for governor. Thomas M. Marshall, Jr., of Allegheny, presented the name of Col. Wm. A. Stone.

Representative Caldwell, of Northampton county, and Joseph M. Huston, of Philadelphia, presented the names of Ex-Postmaster Wanamaker. When Mr. Huston had concluded his address, A. S. L. Shields, of Philadelphia, presented a letter from Wanamaker withdrawing as a candidate. In the letter Mr. Wanamaker asked his delegates to vote for Charles W. Stone.

When Mr. Shields had concluded reading the Wanamaker letter the chairman of the resolutions committee presented the platform, which was unanimously adopted.

The platform reaffirms the principles of the St. Louis platform and then says:

We declare our emphatic approval of the wise and patriotic course of the President and Congress in the present crisis. We appreciate the high statesmanship which led the President to resort to every honorable means to avoid the necessity of a war with Spain.

We rejoice with the people of the nation upon the brilliant record which the American navy has made in the present war. The splendid victory of the Americans under Commodore Dewey at Manila has not been marred in the less art of naval warfare. We demand that the national government shall speedily as possible, increase and build up our navy so that we shall be at all times prepared to meet the necessities of our national defence to protect merchant marine.

The doctrine of protection is endorsed, the construction of the Nicaragua canal is favored, and the interstate and national administrations are commended.

Nominating speeches were resumed and ex-State Senator Allen, of Warren county, offered the name of Congressman C. W. Stone. The nomination was seconded by Newton W. Black.

The war makes a good demand for the Bangor papers. Crowds are at the post office now, as soon as the mail arrives, and nobody seems to take any especial interest in their letters either. It is the papers they want and read first, letters have to wait till the latest news of the war has been digested.

Miss May Smith is visiting friends in town this week.

Bishop Neeley, of Portland, arrived in Presque Isle Wednesday and that evening administered the sacrament of confirmation to seven people at the Episcopal church. In six of his eleven games Joyce made one error.

Sheckard has hit safely three or more times in five games.

Tiernan has played without an error in the last nineteen games.

Van Haltren has not made an assist since the opening of the season.

Hartman accepted sixteen chances and had four errors in the last thirteen games.

New York, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Chicago and Louisville have not been shut out this year.

Much will depend on the work of the Cincinnatis on this trip east. If they go home still in the lead, Ewing says they will come very near the championship. Road work of a successful kind makes any team confident.

Chick Stahl of the Bostons is all out of form at the bat. He has lost his eye for picking out the good ones, but he will get there all right.

Cap. Daffy is now one of the finest throwing outfielders in the business. His shots for second Monday and for the home plate Tuesday about saved two games.

The New England league never was stronger, notwithstanding the fact that Pres. Murphy and his friends have drawn up the sponge at Fall River. The league will take care of Fall River.—Boston Globe. Yes!

Boston is pretty well up in the race, in fact just about the right place for the time of year.

The Brooklyns have lost 14 out of 17 games.

Columbus has sold Outfielder Lally to Minneapolis.

Davis leads the New Yorks and Tucker the Brooklyns in batting.

After having made two hits in 15 games, Hay succeeded in making one hit in both games on Monday.

Cleveland won 15 out of 18 games before leaving for the East. Patsey's troubles began immediately upon his arrival on eastern fields.

Tom Daley, the veteran second baseman, made a home run for Milwaukee on Friday, against Kansas City, with three men on the bases.

On the western trip, completed Saturday, Boston won five out of nine games, Baltimore four out of nine, New York four out of ten, Brooklyn three out of nine, Washington three out of 10, and Philadelphia two out of nine. Cleveland won seven out of nine, Cincinnati, Pittsburg and Louisville, each six out of nine, Chicago six out of nine and St. Louis four out of 10—25 victories for the western clubs to 21 for the eastern.

Elmer Smith of the Cincinnatis batted safely for the 30th game in succession on Monday. This is the best record ever made in the National league and American association. And Smith says he has not been well since the season began. He has a batting percentage of 1.000.

Manager "Denny" Long was scheduled to play a game at Paterson last Sunday and concluded it would be better to play a home game with Hartford. Hartford from Hartford that forfeited the game at Paterson, thereby incurring a fine and a defeat on the same afternoon. The manager of the Paterson club intends to push the matter, and since Long pay for his action.

ISLAND FALLS.

Our correspondent writes: Preparations are being made for a celebration July 4th.

Geo. H. Dunham and Alpheus Craig have been chosen delegates to the Republican district and state conventions.

A good baseball nine is soon to be organized here.

Memorial Day exercises were carried out in spite of the heavy rain which prevailed in the morning. The exercises of the afternoon took place in the Congregational church, and included music by the band, recitations by Mrs. M. A. Peters, Miss Annie Clark and Miss Alice Brown, address by Rev. H. L. McChum, of Houlton, and singing by quartet. The address was well received by the audience. The selectmen will soon erect a suitable building to hold ladders, fire buckets, etc., to be used by the town in case of fire.

Large numbers of men have been in town lately waiting for a chance for work cutting. Mr. D. H. Gray, who has charge of the bark business, and Frank W. Hunt & Co., will run several camps as usual.

Hon. and Mrs. Geo. E. Cutler, of Southbridge, Mass., are at their summer home, "Barker Ridge Farm," in this town.

Several of the lawyers of Houlton, in connection with S. T. Campbell, Esq., of Island Falls, have purchased a fine sail boat, which they have named "The Sharker," to use in Mattawamkeag lake in this town. A week ago Friday evening a token on board of the vessel, S. T. Campbell, Esq., as commodore, was specially pleasing to the party.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Free Baptists will shortly be held with the society in Island Falls in their new church, which will soon be dedicated.

Squire Blinney has a large crop of American pies on the lands which he is willing to dispose of for reasonable.

It is said they block up his school room.

Friend Dewey writes us from Manila that the weather on that day he arrived was better than it ever was before, so far as any one could recall.

Brother Weyer, the recent successful butcher of this village, is thinking some of starting in business in Boston. He wants to go in with Schlow and buy up his old debts.

SPANISH BLUFF,

Claim Only One Ship at Santiago.

London, June 2. The Spanish ambassador in London, Count Tason, in an interview today is quoted as supporting the assertion made in Madrid that the Cristobal Colon was the only important Spanish vessel in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba during the recent engagement there. One paper predicts that Admiral Cervera's movements are likely to furnish a startling sensation in the near future.

As a result of the Spanish letter accepting there is much speculation here as to whether Admiral Cervera's whole fleet is at Santiago de Cuba. In fact, some people outside authority form the most prominent feature of the event now today.

The Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon says: "The only certainty in the mass of uncertainty is that Admiral Cervera is at Santiago de Cuba and that he escaped the Japanese, says he is not there." The Pall Mall Gazette is indignant at the assertion in Cuba of its correspondent Mr. Robinson, and says his release must be insisted upon.

OPINION AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, June 2. It was stated authoritatively at the navy department at noon today that not a word had been received from Commodore Schley, as to the engagement at Santiago. The officials express no surprise at the delay on account for it on several grounds. In the first place, it is said that a fleet engagement must well until an engagement is completed before he makes a report, and that the press reports may give only the initial features of an action without waiting for its completion. There are intimations that the press reports cover only the first months of Commodore Schley's movements and that until those movements were developed to the point where the results in view were actually achieved, reports would not be made on incidental phases of the general movement.

Moreover, it is pointed out that the fleet commander must communicate with all the commanders of the ships finding by his fleet in order to learn as to casualties, damages and all the circumstances of the night.

The official information that the action of Tuesday is only the initial phase of a more general movement is strengthened by the view that Commodore Schley would hardly attempt an attack upon the land some days to object in view. This object, it is believed, is to burn or sink the number of Spanish ships now within Santiago harbor and thus to develop the effectiveness of the fire of the Spanish forts at the entrance of the harbor. With these two points established he will the signal night the entrance of military and naval could be executed against Santiago with much greater certainty as to the results. While the navy department has been assured for the last ten days that Admiral Cervera's entire fleet is inside Santiago harbor, Commodore Schley has not yet been able to make an official report establishing this fact beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Of course the location of this entire Spanish squadron, not excepting a single vessel, large or small, is of essential importance to the complete and intelligent formation of a strategic campaign. It would remove the most element of hazard in sending troops from Tampa or elsewhere, and the danger of their being harassed in the rear by some of the Spanish ships. It is of equal importance that the present strength of the Spanish fleet, its location, number of guns and general effectiveness should be established. These points can be learned only by a fight which takes the combined and concentrated assault upon the Spanish defenses.

JOINED FLEET.

Oregon Has Warm Reception.

(Copyright by the Associated Press.)

On board the Associated Press dispatch boat Dandelion, May 29, via Key West, June 2, 11:40 A. M. The United States battleship Oregon joined the fleet this morning, making the most remarkable long distance cruise in the history of modern Dreadnaughts. The reception by the fleet was worthy of her achievement.

The first news of the Oregon's arrival at Key West was brought to the squadron by the Associated Press dispatch boat, soon after sunrise. The fleet was consequently on the lookout for her and when, almost at noon, there loomed up a smoke talk on the northwest horizon, there was vigorous fog waving from ship to ship. The crippled limits raised their flags on the Oregon lore down between them. The fighter slowed down to a majestic pace and then the noise arose. Bars and rank of white clad sailors broke into yells, which echoed over half a mile against the wind, and the crew of the Oregon sent them back with interest.

SCHLEY AT SANTIAGO.

(Copyright, 1898, by Associated Press.)

With the United States fleet, off Santiago de Cuba, May 29, via Port Antonio, Jan. 2. Four weeks after the victory of Rear Admiral Dewey at Manila, Commodore Schley, in command of the flying squadron, had the shrewdness and luck to be rewarded by finding the Spanish fleet in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba.

For ten days he had, in the face of conflicting rumors, and some cases of alleged verifications, insisted that the Spanish ships at Santiago were trying to make a landing on the southern coast of Cuba. This was evidently not confident with newspaper and official information and his position was not given much public weight.

In fact, it is believed that some days before he proved the correctness of his diagnosis of the situation, he was ordered to return to Key West. However, new facts gathered by him in the meantime gave him still more grounds for belief as to his position in the Spanish.

The captain of the British steamer Adula, who was interviewed at Cienfuegos, told of seeing the Spanish fleet in the vicinity of Santiago de Cuba, evidently awaiting opportunity to get in. Capt. Sigsbee, of the St. Paul, stated now he had captured a Spanish collier, bound for Santiago, Commodore Schley moved from these two incidents that the fleet of Spain was waiting in some cove near Santiago until such time as a visit, favorable in its results, should be made there.

The Americans, when, upon their departure, the Spanish fleet would run into the harbor.

SCHLEY DETERMINED.

Commodore Schley determined to make that visit, but not to have it fruitless, and on Friday night he ran within six miles of the harbor. The St. Paul was then detached and sent back to keep out of sight with instructions to be ready, at a moment's notice, to bring news to the commodore at any moment. From the American ships the Spanish warships were in plain view, but no doubt under prearranged arrangement, even the fort made no attempt to fire. The flying squadron, never circling around, slowly scouted away in the direction of Key West, as if to avoid suspicion, becoming short. There was a coal there with the squadron, but there was no needle hard or fast, small water and there was serious danger of so skimming the coaling if an attempt was made to call the Iowa battleships at sea.

Reinforced and during, Commodore Schley showed forth, I opened and, at dark with an original, ready to protect the ship, the Texas and the Marblehead been to coal. They worked all night, and at daybreak had filled their bunkers.

OFF FOR SANTIAGO.

By noon on Saturday the converted yacht Vixen had been coaled, and at 1 o'clock, not having heard from the St. Paul, the American warships again moved towards Santiago de Cuba. First, standing off the coast of Jamaica, the squadron of cruisers circled in front of Morro castle but not close enough to get a view of the inside of the harbor, guarding carefully against the possibility of a torpedo attack.

Although the squadron lay off a point of land, and in the morning, Sunday, the St. Paul came along but had not reported the actual size of the Spanish fleet's three ships.

Consequently, Commodore Schley decided to wait no longer, and, with the gunship in the lead, he started towards the harbor.

The Spanish forts at the earthworks and batteries could be seen, preparing to keep to give the American ships as warm a reception as possible.

When at six miles from the harbor, the officers reported the mouth of two ships, and Flag Lieutenant Sears and Ensign M. Carey made the first one out to be the Cristobal Colon. Two torpedo boats were also sighted and a second vessel, of the Vizcaya class, was seen.

At this time Commodore Schley took upon the after bridge of the Brooklyn, making good use of his binoculars.

SHIPS SIGHTED

Arrived at the harbor entrance, when the ships were sighted from the deck, he turned his eyes from the glasses long enough to wink and say:

"I told you I would find them. They will be a long time getting home."

The order to man the port batteries, if not to rest to the shore, had been given, and the men stripped to the waist, to be operation, considerably over 200 degrees, awaited the word to fire, with impatience.

But the commodore decided not to waste ammunition on the batteries and the men were disappointed. Commodore Schley showed his coolness of temperament by opening the Massachusetts topsail from the fender within view of the forts and warships of Spain.

It was perfectly evident from the position of the Spanish warships on Sunday morning that they had either just entered the harbor, having learned of the sudden departure of the American squadron, or had been in hiding up the bay, which is about nine miles long and the run down to get out early Sunday morning. In any case, it was excellent proof of the perfection of Commodore Schley's tactics and showed that, after weeks of weary following of Cervera's fleet by strategy boards, he seven days, to find succeeded in battling up the Spanish fleet in one of its own harbors.

Less than two days before, two suspected Cuban pilots, sent from Jamaica, by the government had informed the commodore on the deck of the Brooklyn that a vessel of the size of the Spanish warships could go up the harbor, and, if they this information had been politely received, the pilots were sent back to Kingston, although they desired to be landed in Cuba.

NARROW AND DEEP.

The latest maps of the harbor show a narrow but deep channel fairly well protected and supposed to be mined. The narrow neck is not large enough to allow more than one ship at a time to pass, and the batteries, unless reduced, would be very destructive.

There are three batteries, outside and two small ones inside, and between the entrance place and the city proper the distance is very nearly three miles or the bay, measuring from Morro Castle. The latest information in the possession of the government showed that at the narrow point entrance near Morro Castle there are three lines of electrically worked mines, thirty in all. Besides this, there are two sets of old new batteries just opposite the Morro, forming, with the latter, a danger cross fire.

Just inside this are two batteries on the east shore, Estrella and Catalina.

Cayo Smith, about half a mile up the bay, and about the centre, where the narrow entrance widens, contains the batteries of modern guns, as has also Blanco battery, just near the city of Santiago de Cuba itself.

About two miles west of Morro, in shore is the Cone battery, and there are to be supposed to be some mines near Cayo Smith.

BATTERY ARMAMENT.

The armament of the various batteries is supposed to be as follows, not including the new earthworks, behind which there are modern guns:

Morro—Five smoothbore guns fired ten 18 and 24 pounders.

Blanco Battery—Nine smoothbore and 24 pounders of little account and two modern mortars.

The Estrella Battery—Ten smoothbore guns.

Cayo Smith—Several modern guns.

The only view into the harbor for any time is from the southwest, and, as the Brooklyn, moving forward of the squadron, passed along Light Scarsdale noted that the Spanish cruiser Reina Mercedes, which had been partly dismantled, lay in the harbor, perhaps 1500 yards inside of Aberto Castle, and behind, behind the "yellow of mines." To the westward, in further inside was the Alfonso XII, lying under the guns of Cayo Smith, and to the east of it, her starboard battery building down upon the narrow channel, was the Cristobal Colon.

AN ALLY.

It was Should be Annexed.

Washington, June 2. The naval officials now calculating that Hawaii has become an ally of the United States in the great war with Spain and at this moment, the government is responsible for the protection of the Hawaiian islands from the consequences of their friendship for us. According to the calculation of the officials of the navy department, the United States cruiser Charleston arrived at Honolulu last Saturday. She had probably completed her initial stock of ammunition and is now ready for the fight. The government of Hawaii has most nearly all sympathies of neutrality and unless we protect her she is subject to punishment at the hands of Spain.

FOR GALLANTRY.

Naval Officers Advanced.

Washington, June 2. The President today sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Navy—For advancement for conspicuous conduct in battle: Capt. Frank Wildes, to be advanced seven numbers; Capt. Joseph B. Coghlan, to be advanced six numbers; Capt. Chas. V. Gridley, to be advanced six numbers; Capt. N. M. Dyer, to be advanced seven numbers; Capt. Ben. D. Lamberton, to be advanced seven numbers; Commodore Asa Walker, to be advanced nine numbers; Commodore Howard P. Wood, to be advanced ten numbers.

NOT POLICY TO FORCE.

It will thus be seen that it would be unwise to force an entrance to the place at once, and the batteries are reduced, and this would consume a lot of ammunition. At the same time, taking it for granted that the remainder of the Spanish fleet with four cruisers and two torpedo boats, is still further up the harbor, it will be seen that the warships of Spain are effectively bottled up.

Sunday, at sunset, found the squadron in line, the outside Santiago de Cuba, the Iowa on the east of the line, the Massachusetts next to her, the Indiana west of the Massachusetts and then the Texas, which was on the extreme left, while the Marblehead and the Vixen were in front.

Monday no American fleet retained its position off South Cuba and no attempt was made on the part of the Spanish fleet to get out of the harbor.

The United States cruiser New Orleans arrived during the afternoon and joined the squadron. The cruiser Scorpion also came along. The Iowa and Texas coaled.

The British second class cruiser Indefatigable came alongside the flagship and asked permission to go into the harbor. Her commander said there had been no communication with Santiago de Cuba for one day, since Thursday, P. M., and he had come to look after the duty of the British consul. After obtaining permission the commander of the Indefatigable rendezvous at Kingston and went south, not entering the harbor, good as he said he had learned that the Spanish fleet was being bottled up there.

THE STOCK MARKET.

New York, June 2. The tendencies in the stock market today were very much mixed and at times so conflicting as to make any general view confusing and difficult. It is fair to state, however, that in spite of the exceptionally course of some stocks, the undertone of the market was very firm, and even strong.

In a general way it may be stated that the high priced leaders of the market with the single exception of sugar, came to a halt and even receded while the lower priced stocks, both in the railroad and industrial lists, were lifted to a level more commensurate with the high level established by the leaders. The strongest except Burlington, all closed lower than last night. Progress Gas was also heavily under pressure of realizing. The losses in the case of securities are in the case of much consequence. The low priced specialties, especially those of reorganized railroad corporations, were lifted up in a vigorous way, the very generally as usual. Union Pacific, preferred, is the class of most vigorously bought all day, closing at a net gain of 1%. The Northern Pacific, Reading, Erie, and the southern railway stocks and some others all show strengthening improvement. New York Air Brake made a jump of nearly five points but did not hold all the gain. The industrial stocks suffered from selling for long for account. Tobacco being negatively impressed with Spanish reports of the naval engagement at Santiago. The leather stocks had some degree of representation. Sugar occupied a leading place, both in point of activity and strength.

Yesterday's activity in bonds was not fully sustained, but prices advanced more generally than in the stock market. U. S. fives advanced 1% on the new issue registered 2, and its coupon 1 per cent, in the bid price. There was a sale of new 4s coupon at 123¾, a rise of ⅝ per cent, over the last sale.

The following is the poem:

Soldiers, who at new height unfurled,
Lay them gently on each mound
Where the silent sleeps your comrades
Troubled not by war's rude sound.
Note we how your ranks are thinning,
Newmade graves you to-day,
While your "Roll of Honor" tells us
Who has fallen by the way.
Hark! the call "To Arms!" is sounding,
Cuba's groans has reached the skies!
Answer you, ye valiant sharpshooters
And with tears that dim your eyes,
Loyal sons the roll-call swelling
Echoes now their martial tread,
On the battlefields, but lately
Without patriots blood dye red.
North and South again united,
Clothed are none in rebel gray,
Side by side with freedom marching
Eager, nation's for the fray.
Bright above them floats "Old Glory,"
Ensign of the free the brave,
Whispering, hope, to earth's downtrodden:
Ever may it proudly wave.

ATHLETICS AND SPORTS.

In a few days Yale oarsmen will be on the New London ocean. They have received permission from the faculty to leave New Haven on June 8, to remain until after the Yale-Harvard-Cornell races on July 23 and 25. The men will go to Gales Ferry, their permanent training quarters, immediately after the close of recitations. As there have been no changes in the crew for a month and the shifting moving along, there will probably be no moving around in the boat this year. The variety men are likely to go into the big race in exactly the same order as they are now rowing. This is: Stroke, Williams, 7, Greenleaf, 6, Allen, 5, Kneeland, 4, Hill, 3, Brock, 2, Wickersham, 1, Capt. Whitney. The two substitutes who will go to New London will be Bell and Cross. McGee once at the strongest oars of last year's freshman crew, was hooked to New London as substitute, but through illness he has dropped behind in his studies and has been declared ineligible by the faculty. It is a singular fact that all of the regular eight, except Capt. Whitney, did the two previous years, were members of last year's freshman crew.

The quarters at Gales Ferry, six miles above New London, are being prepared by President Greeville Dwight Parker of the Yale navy. They will be Capt. Brown's mansion, Lasselow on the ferry heights. The Yale launch has been taken out of its winter quarters and put in commission. The news that Harvard has a new launch and a fast one, to having the fastest boat in the river, reached here a few weeks ago and caused Bob Cook to make plans to put the Yale launch in as speedy running trim as possible. Harvard will have a decided advantage in possessing the fastest launch on the river. The new launch of the Yale freshmen is practically over. Their remaining time here will be used toward perfecting their trade work. They are not likely to row the four miles again until they swing their blades over the surface of the Thames on the regular four mile course. Bob Cook said, in speaking of the prospects of his crew: "I never saw a boxing which contained so many boys with the harbor unusually fine for rowing. We have not been able to go over the regular course half a dozen times without having the shell filled with water."

New York Sun: For some time the faculty of Harvard University have been considering the individual by of subjecting all the undergraduates to a compulsory course in physical training. The overseers have recommended such a course for the freshmen, and since that recommendation was made a special committee of the faculty has proposed that the whole college shall be compelled to strengthen itself in the man spending gymnasium. The faculty has been giving liberal credits to that proposition and according to the Boston papers the result of its labors may be expected this week.

People will be some charging of Harvard if she should not be prepared in the matter of athletic attendance, that than to her upon strings in the matter of exercise. With one breath she will seem to say: "You young men take care of yourselves," and in another: "You are boys and don't know how to take care of yourselves. Come and be healthy whether you want to or not."

The inconsistency is only apparent. Vaccination is necessary even under the most rigidly hygienic system, and why not training to promote the general health? A boy may have a small pox and be done with it, or the failure to develop his body properly may hamper him through his life and may greatly shorten it.

Nobody can see any great amount of undergraduates, whether of Harvard or of any other college, without getting the impression that in spite of the interest in athletics the mass of the undergraduates is not athletic. There is a picked body of athletics; there is a very considerable number of students who without any hope of gaining the distinction have laudably exercised and show it in their carriage. But how many buildings the most wide lounged, of the cheerers at game or race are painably undeveloped, feeble, guilty of exercise.

Add to this the fact that the amateur exercises without advice is just about as likely to do himself harm as good. We don't forget the accomplished Dr. Dudley A. Sargent at Cambridge but he is an objective. So is the gymnasium. They should be made required studies. Gymnastics isn't worth a plug's fee. Health might not be optional at Harvard or any other college.

The date of the contest between Jack Dempsey and Owen Ziegler has been set for June 6. The pair will box twenty rounds.

The Olympic A. C. of Birmingham, England, has been sold to a syndicate of English sportsmen and will resume business in October.

Oscar Gardner, the "Omaha Kid," has issued a challenge to box George Dixon or Solly Smith. Gardner will take either, on or at 118 or 120 pounds.

George Justice, who is defender Joe Bernstein and other boxer, has nearly recovered his health and is looking for a match with any 118 or 120 pound boxer.

Spike Sullivan has commenced training for his meeting with Dal Hawkins, which will take place on June 20. Spike is working at Colley Point, while Hawkins is getting into shape at Coney Island. The sports have made Hawkins the favorite in the betting.

In anticipation of "Tom" Palmer's visit to the country, Sam by Kelly says he will pay $5,000 this week with Al Smith to that match with the Englishman at either 116 or 118 pounds. Dave Sullivan says that he will do the same thing but does not stipulate any particular weight.

Sam Fitzpatrick expects to clinch a match in a few days between Jack Daly and Charley McKeever, the battle to take place in San Francisco. The National Club of that city has offered a good purse for "twenty round fight." Sam said recently that if he does not hear from Jack Levigne pretty soon he will take on McKeever.

Solly Smith, through his manager, Al Kunz, of San Francisco, issued a formal challenge to box Ben Jordan, the English featherweight champion. Smith thinks that he ought to be entitled to fight the defeated Willie Smith, the former English featherweight champion, and has received a decision over George Dixon, he is entitled to first chance. Smith is prepared to wager $2,500 on the outside and is willing to have the battle fought to a finish if necessary. Martin Dowling, Jordan's backer, told a reporter that Jordan will take on Solly, if Dixon refuses to make a match. A purse of $1,000 has been offered for a fight between Jordan and Smith.

J. C. McCracken, the Philadelphia weight lifter, defeated the world's champion, John Dunnigan, at the New Jersey Athletic Club games and surpassed Dunnigan's record of 155 feet 7 inches made a few weeks ago at New Orleans, by one inch. To delivery on a 50 foot track ran 300 yards in 31 seconds.

Solly Smith has challenge Young Jordan, the English featherweight champion, for the world's championship at the weight, to be decided at the Lenox Club in the near future.

Bicycle meet promoters say that the meeting for the month of May has cost them thousands of dollars.

A YEAR OF GOLD WILL BE 1898.

Antipodes to Empty the Yellow Metal on the Market—Enormous South African Product.

This year there will be a very great increase in the gold supply of the world if the rate for the early months is kept up, and America is going to have the share of it. The greatest increase, however, is reported from the Rand district in South Africa. The Rand has exported in the first four months of this year, almost twice as much gold as in the corresponding months of two years ago, while the increase over the same months in 1897 is 384,280 ounces or $7,984,200. The following table shows the approximate amount of gold, reckoned in dollars, taken from the Rand District in 1896-97-98:

	1896.	1897.	1898.
January,	$3,040,000	$3,808,800	$5,703,000
February,	3,000,000	3,840,000	5,120,000
March,	3,177,600	4,293,600	5,017,000
April,	3,010,800	4,289,400	5,609,200
May,	3,349,000	4,610,000
June,	3,324,200	4,677,600
July,	3,710,400	4,413,000
August,	3,884,000	4,724,800
September,	3,124,200	4,971,200
October,	3,154,000	4,990,000
November,	3,600,200	5,404,000
December,	3,720,600	5,476,000
Totals,	$41,541,200	$56,152,600	$21,473,400

There is also an increase in Australian gold from 2,607,000 ounces in the first three months of 1897 to 2,671,000 ounces in the first three months of this year. All this flood of gold coming into England has its effect indirectly upon the gold supply of other countries. In this way. After sending us what gold she was obliged to send England will have checked the export and paid in some other way if she had not had her stock of gold replenished by the unprecedented output from the Rand and the increase in Australian gold.

America is going to experience an increase in gold, however, more than this. Half of the Klondike shipments comes this way and the mines nearer home give promise of large productions. Maurice S. Muhlemann, deputy assistant United States treasurer, said:

"The outlook is that we are to have a great amount of gold this year. As yet the Klondike gold has not come in owing to the ice, but it is estimated at $20,000,000 or more when it does come. There will also be a large increase from present indications, from Colorado and other mining States. I am told that the Clearing House people are trying to extend their facilities for handling and safe keeping the increased gold which is expected to pour in from Alaska and Canada. If they get a lot of the precious metal out there from the Klondike in addition to the extra supply from Australia, they will be overloaded and the surplus will come East.

"This seems to be coming at a very opportune time. The government is likely to appear soon as a borrower, owing to the war measures, and this would naturally make money dear and send interest rates up. This tendency will be counteracted by the importing of new gold from the West. At the present the banks have plenty of money and have given promise of being a very liberal one."

SILVER GOES UP IN PRICE.

Bar silver in the New York market Friday sold at 58 cents an ounce, an advance of 2 cents since May 24. The chief factor in the improvement, aside from Cooley's thought, was large purchases of silver in the London market for Spain. Practically all the purchases on the market are of silver from the United States. It is known that it is the United States silver that Spain is buying. The bullion dealers don't seem to think that the recent addition to the world's stock of gold have anything to do with the present rise in the price of silver.

An added bullish factor in the silver market Friday was the report that the United States government contemplated in May large purchases of Mexican silver dollars to use in the Philippines. It has already brought 2,000,000 in San Francisco, paying 46 cents apiece for them. Mexican dollars in equal quantities can be brought here at 45½ cents. It is said that the American soldiers in the Philippines can be paid twice as much in the United States dollars and buy twice as much as he could with one of our dollars.

EVANGELIST BENN'S CRUISE

He Proposes to Bombard Southern Ports and Islands with Tracts and Sermons.

The Chapel Boat Society, an organization founded by Evangelist George E. Bean, a year ago, is going to bombard seaport towns and islands in the South with tracts and sermons in a novel fashion as soon as its plans are completed. Referring to this work the Chicago Economist says:

"It is the idea of the society to build a large seagoing yacht with an auditorium capable of seating several hundred people, which will be used as a chapel. The deck of the vessel will seat about 1,200 people and will be used for Gospel meetings whenever the weather conditions permit. Mr. Bean will go with the boat, and will have a crew of Christian workers on board, with large supplies of Bibles and tracts for gratuitous distribution among the destitute. The vessel will be equipped to bombard any port or Satan within reach of its shots and shells of divine truth. The crew intends to visit all American seaports, villages, islands, and many foreign points stand in need of mission work, particularly the Mexican Gulf regions. It will be built so as to ply navigable rivers also, and thus its range of usefulness will be practically unlimited. In the coast towns and villages on the islands about the Gulf of Mexico are always some great sailor, totally deprived of Gospel privileges and teaching. Mr. Bean, having spent several years in evangelistic work in Florida and throughout the South knows perfectly well the religious destitution of the people for whom this floating mission is intended, and knows also how to reach them. Evidences of degradation and depravity among these fishing and coast dwellers come under his observation, many of which if related, would appear incredible to most people in the Christian land of free America."

CARMEL.

Our correspondent writes: Rev. Mr. Hearn preached a memorial sermon Sabbath morning before Chas. W. Johnson Post and Corps. There was a good attendance both of the Post members and Corps. The sermon was very fitting to the occasion, and was well received by the G. A. R. and citizens.

Memorial Day began with a heavy rain in the morning which abated somewhat towards noon and the G. A. R. and W. R. C. and the Sons of Veterans marched to the cemetery, escorted by the Prospect Corner Band, and decorated the soldiers' graves. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather the entire program was carried out and successfully.

The address in the afternoon by Hugh R. Chaplin of Bangor, seat of the best in the history of the Post. He gained the interest of the audience at the start and held it to the finish. Mrs. Sadie Holt is reported as being very sick.

Mrs. Alice Marcho is sick with pneumonia, and has had to change a boil.

Mrs. Sadie Hammons of Auburn is visiting her thousand friends. Mr. H. Hanson and wife.

IT IS NOT A STRATEGY BOARD

Secretary Long Says His Advisers Do Not Hamper Sampson—There is a War Board.

Secretary Long talked interestingly the other day with a Sun reporter about that much-criticised body of officers, the so-called Naval Strategy Board, which certain newspapers here and abroad have presumed to be intrusted with the sole conduct of the naval campaign. The attention of Mr. Long was called to a statement in the London Times that would go to show that the direction of operations to naval commanders instead of to a board in Washington.

"That shows how little the writer knew on the subject," he said. "That is exactly what we are doing. Leaving the conduct of operations to commanding officers. The freedom of action given to the commanders of squadrons was shown in the orders to Admiral Dewey, which have been published. He was allowed to make his own plans. A similar case is that of the movement against Porto Rico by Admiral Sampson. He was allowed to carry out ideas of his own in attacking San Juan."

Mr. Long explained that the term Strategy Board was erroneous. The name of this advisory body, he said, was the War Board. It does not undertake to arrange out and dried programmes for naval commanders to follow, for the department realizes that an officer on the ground is much better fitted to do his work well without being hampered by advice from others not on the ground.

The War Board is not a normal body. It has no set rules and regulations, and is not composed of a certain number of men. Its members are officers in whose judgment and ability the Secretary of the Navy has confidence, and they act merely as advisers. The principal function of the board is to collect information about the enemy and furnish it to the commanders of America's squadrons or single vessels.

The Secretary of the Navy is not bound by its advice, nor there has never been any intention to give the board determine what Admiral Sampson, for example, should do in certain cases. The board means of securing information not accessible to squadron commanders and it considers all the data and news it receives and transmits to them in connect form to the officer or officers to whom they will be valuable.

Mr. Long spoke in the highest terms of Admiral Sicard, the senior member of the board, who, he said, has been for six months in command of the squadrons now operating in Cuban waters, was thoroughly familiar with the conditions in that locality, and, said he, he was in perfect accord with Admiral Sampson. Mr. Long also spoke in terms of praise of the other members of the board, Capt. Mahan and Capt. Crowninshield, and of Capt. Barker, who retired from his advisory place to take command of the Newark.

Rodin's long delayed statue of Balzac, the plaster cast for which is on exhibition at the Paris Salon, has risen an artistic storm, some people declaring it to be a work of genius, while almost every one laughs at it. The sculptor himself explains that he has represented the novelist as struck by an idea in the mid le of the night and hastening to his work table to write it down. The figure is therefore clad in a nightgown, the folds of which are gathered up in one hand. The Societe des Gens de Lettres, which ordered the statue, has accepted it, but it has been bought by one of Rodin's admirers.

Much Sickness on the San Francisco.

Boston, June 2. The United States cruiser San Francisco arrived off the navy yard shortly before 10 o'clock today with ten of her seamen ill. The men were transferred to the naval hospital at Chelsea.

Commander Howell, of the cruiser San Francisco, sent a telegram from Provincetown to Commodore Howison at the navy yard yesterday asking for a special detachment of sailors, petty officers and marines to take the places of the members of the crew who have been taken sick. This was the second time during the past week that the coast patrol has landed sick men and it is thought the entire crew would have to be relieved from coast patrol duty and accelerated seamen from the receiving ship, Wabash sent to fill the vacancies. Thirteen men were landed on the previous occasion.

The sailors on the San Francisco have been accustomed to warm climates and the rough weather which has swept over the coast during the past ten days has laid many of the men up with pneumonia, measles and serious colds.

It is stated that the Canadian Pacific railway proposes to put on a fast transcontinental service which will make the journey from Montreal to Vancouver in 100 hours. The company has adopted plans for laying a number of additional sidings between Winnipeg and Fort William, so as to afford required accommodation for increasing traffic, but ultimately they will be utilized as a part of a double track system from Winnipeg to the lake. For some time past all bridges, culverts, sidings, etc., that have been renewed have been constructed with this in view, and the new sidings to be put in this year will be built on the same plan.

You will find linings in all dry goods stores, but there's a difference; a difference which cannot always be detected until they are put to the test, then comes the trouble and annoyance caused by poor linings. You can't put this down as a fact that while there are a great many different makes of Silesias, Percalines, Cotton Satins, etc., there are only a few makes that are at all reliable. We made a study of the lining business and while we do not claim to carry the only good things that are sold in town, we do claim that you will always get the best makes in our lining department. We guarantee every yard sold from this department and will make good all just claims. BERRY NOMINATED

For Governor by the "People's Party" in State Convention.

Oratorical Passage at Arms Between Mr. Bateman and Mr. Campion.

The State convention of the "People's Party" was held in Y. M. C. A. Hall on Thursday with an attendance of between thirty and forty when the chairman's gavel dropped at 10:40 A. M. In the afternoon the number present was slightly increased.

B. E. Donovan, State secretary, called the convention to order, and L. W. Smith of Appleton was elected chairman. B. H. Ladd, of Waterville was made secretary and Robert Carter, of Ellsworth, assistant secretary.

The roll call for by counties for a committee on credentials was read as follows:

Androscoggin—No delegates. Prof. Bateman arose and said that Capt. J. E. Hall and Willard Noyes were in town from Androscoggin but that they were not in the hall.

Aroostook—No delegates.

Cumberland—W. D. Sargent, Portland.

Franklin—No delegates.

Hancock—B. E. Donovan, Ellsworth.

Kennebec—No delegates. The secretary said that he would represent the county and was told to put his name down.

Knox—D. G. Richards.

Lincoln—No delegates.

Oxford—No delegates.

Penobscot—John White, Levant.

Phenteqnis—M. S. Berry was present but declined to serve.

Sagadahoc—No delegates.

Somerset—V. P. Hall, Mayfield.

Waldo—No delegates.

Washington—No delegates.

York—Charles W. Stone, Berwick.

John White, of Levant, declined to serve and named George T. Blanchard, of Plymouth, in his place.

The following committee on platform was appointed: Willard Noyes, Androscoggin; W. H. McLaughlin, Cumberland; A. Klukman, Hancock; D. G. Richards, Knox; Jesse R. Clark, Penobscot; M. S. Berry, Phenteqnis; V. P. Hall, Somerset; Isaac B. Weeks, York.

The committee then retired and Mr. Campion moved a recess, which was taken. The convention was called to order again in half an hour but was adjourned to 2 o'clock.

At the afternoon session Mr. Richards reported for the committee on credentials that there were present 76 by credentials and 28 without credentials. The report was accepted.

THE PLATFORM.

Mr. Richards reported for the committee on platform as follows:

The People's party in Maine, in convention assembled, do hereby declare the following articles of faith:

1st. Renewed alliance to the principles of the People's party as set forth in the Omaha and St. Louis platforms.

2nd. Inalienable opposition to fusion in whatever guise it may appear.

3rd. We are opposed to the labor-robbing institutions known as national banks, and demand that the government shall alone have the power to issue money and regulate the value thereof; this money should be a full legal tender for all debts, public and private, and issued in sufficient volume to transact the legitimate business of the country.

4th. The system of issuing bonds in every public emergency is most dangerous and pernicious and should be strictly prohibited by the American convention.

5th. We hold that the railroad, telegraph and telephone system are public institutions, as such should be owned and operated by the people and made a part of the postal system of the country.

6th. As long as the inflexible system of metal money is retained we demand that silver should receive the same recognition as gold and be admitted to our mints for free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1.

7th. We believe that the system of direct legislation, known as the initiative, referendum and imperative mandate would do away with party bosses and political corruption and therefore we heartily adopt it as a portion of our creed.

8th. The present war with Spain, in connected for the liberation of the Cuban people, is just and holy, but it should not be prolonged for the benefit of contractors and money lenders.

9th. We demand the re-enactment of the graduated income tax law, whereby the rich may be made to bear their full share of the public burdens.

10th. We favor the election of the President, vice president and United States Senators by the direct vote of the people.

11th. The protection of property against loss by fire is essential to the State and the enormous profits derived from fire insurance business by rich corporations, should be kept in the pockets of the property owners. We therefore believe that the fire insurance business of the State of Maine should be conducted by the State at cost, saving about 60 per cent to the insured, thus doing away entirely with the hundreds of insurance agents now living on the people, the premiums being collected with the municipal taxes, and the amount of insurance carried on property to be regulated by the amount of tax paid on the same.

Mr. Bateman moved that the report be accepted.

Mr. Campion moved that the adjective "holy" be stricken from the resolution regarding the Spanish war and "human" be substituted.

This was done and the platform was adopted.

BATEMAN VS. CAMPION.

With the adoption of the platform Mr. Bateman took the floor and made some remarks which had the effect of unmasking Mr. Campion's batteries and of receiving an answering fire of oratorical 13-inch shell. Mr. Bateman arraigned Mr. Arthur Sewall, of Bath, whom he said represented everything opposite to Bryan in the People's party. He said that it had been stated that Mr. Sewall was a Populist and that before the national convention he sent a note to Mr. Sewall asking for an interview, whereupon Mr. Sewall never answered. This, Mr. Bateman said, he considered proof of Mr. Sewall's treachery and duplicity. He said that stupendous blunders were made at the Populist convention. He would not have voted for Bryan on the convention if he had thought he could have been defeated. Mr. Bateman said that he had repeatedly stated that he would support Sewall if he would come out and say that he was a Populist. He said he hoped that there would be no more fusion. No Populist convention would ever support Bryan, he said.

Mr. Campion asked permission to reply and said Mr. Bateman's speech was a most remarkable one. He said Mr. Bateman says that he was convinced that the Democratic candidate must be supported. Who were the men who brought this influence to bear?

Mr. Bateman replied that he was running a paper at that time and about all the papers favored Bryan and called on him to support him.

Mr. Campion asked Mr. Bateman if he were obliged to pay any attention to the papers and asked him to name a Populist who asked him (Mr. Bateman) to fuse with the Democrats.

Mr. Bateman answered "Mr. Dunning and Mr. Naylor" and then went on "You're going into quibbles now. There's lots of things you don't know."

The chairman—Let's not get into hot water. Let's pour oil on the troubled waters.

Mr. Campion—I was a member of the delegation to St. Louis and no one asked me to support Bryan. Bateman was for the Democrats all the time. Of what avail would it have been for Mr. Sewall to have answered Mr. Bateman's note. Mr. Bateman wanted to get Mr. Sewall, as alleged in the papers, to make a deal with him. Mr. Bateman you have taken down more of our Democratic votes than 1896 than one thousand men could build up.

Mr. John White, of Levant, tried to get the floor but Mr. Campion refused to yield and kept on talking, with the result that the chair had to use some vigorous oratory before order was restored.

Mr. Bateman—To the tirade of personal abuse I shall make no reply. I have said that unscrupulous Dunders were made at the convention. The Middle-of-the-Road men were comparatively unorganized, while the Fusionists were organized. Mr. Campion put himself up nominated for chairman in the dead hours of the night by a few men. I personally told him not to run against Allen but his ecstasia made him think that he could defeat Allen. I gave him my vote but I am ashamed of it. Upon that day he shall be hastened to inform me.

Mr. John White, of Levant, now got the floor and said that he would not see his friend (Mr. Bateman) insulted and listen to a man made up of self-conceit and impudence. Are we to see our standard bearer abused by a man from out of the State?

Mr. Donovan—I move that we proceed to business. We are tired of all this.

Mr. Campion tried to get an other hearing but was shut off by a vote of the convention to proceed to business and Mr. Bateman's name was placed before the convention as a candidate for Governor.

Mr. Bateman declined to accept the nomination and Mr. Donovan named Hon. Robert Darey, of Ellsworth Falls, who was nominated for Governor by acclamation. The following State committee was chosen:

Androscoggin—W. A. Noyes, Auburn.
Cumberland—W. H. Jowett, Portland.
Franklin—C. D. Crockett, New Sharon.
Hancock—B. E. Donovan, Ellsworth.
Kennebec—B. H. Ladd, Waterville.
Knox—D. G. Richards, Camden.
Penobscot—John White, Levant.
Phenteqnis—M. S. Berry, Dennysville.
Sagadahoc—J. M. Jordan, Richmond.
Somerset—V. P. Hall, Mayfield.
York—W. M. Merrill, Hewlek.

The matter of a party organ was referred to the State committee.

Mr. Jaime R. Clark presented some resolutions to the effect that the State committee be authorized to prepare and cause to be published such facts as shall best serve the industrial and labor interests of the State.

Mr. Richards moved that the State committee be authorized to choose delegates to the national convention provided it was held before the next state convention and a was a vote.

Mr. McLaughlin presented some witty remarks against Wharton Barker, whom he called not a Populist.

The convention was then adjourned.

A MYSTERIOUS INCIDENT.

Says the Greenwood correspondent of the Oxford Democrat: "There are few persons who take less stock in supernatural sights and sounds than myself, always adhering to the philosophy of cause and effect; but an incident occurred 17 years ago for which I have never been able to give any explanation, and probably never shall. Our daughter, Carrie E., now the wife of T. W. Swan, was born Feb. 25, 1863, on the day that brother Charles was 21 years old. In a few weeks after the birth I wrote a letter to my brother, then a mile away, informing him of the fact, and proposed for him to send us a name for her. This he did after a while, although it did not exactly suit us. Time passed on until the third day of May, which was Sunday, if I remember right, and while we were discussing the propriety of calling the child by the proposed name, she sleeping quietly in the cradle at the time, there came a heavy report like the discharge of a rifle and coming directly from under the cradle in which the infant was sleeping. And here occurred the wonder, in close connection with the first, and equally puzzling. The child, though a nervous little thing and always ready to spring and wake up at any sound of noise, did not move a muscle nor to all appearance heard nothing. On meeting our wits the first question asked was about Charles—if he was killed and if that was the report of the gun that shot him. The next thing was to search the house from garret to cellar, but we found nothing disturbed. About two weeks after this we had a letter from Charles, informing us that he had been wounded in the battle of Chancellorsville, and was then in the hospital at Point Lookout. The wound was in the calf of the leg, and no serious one to lay him up for nearly five months. Writing directly above and another inquiry as to the day and exact time that the wound was shot, it was found to correspond precisely with the moment that we heard the rebel gun, or whatever it was."

Hon. and Mrs. Albion Little, of Portland, have issued announcements of the wedding of their daughter, Miss Nellie Libby, to George Carmen Deake, which occurred on May 24. Mr. and Mrs. Deake will live at 118 W. 111th street, New York city.

Bath Times: The Times simply alluded to that rot in the Boston Post of Sunday derogatory to our Naval Brigade to state that there was a grain of truth and a mountain of misrepresentation in its composition.

On reaching Boston some of the Naval Brigade old sided because refused shore leave until they had complied with a naval regulation relating to payment of about $27, or a bond, to cover supplies furnished by Uncle Sam. Some of the boys considered this injustice, but either at first were inclined to "kick."

It is true that five deserted.

The rest of the men who passed examinations are swearing in and being. There was nothing in the conduct of the Brigade on shore to stamp it with the stigma as the Post would lead its readers to infer.

Hon. Frank Jones' new steam yacht Sagamore took her trial trip Saturday on the Piscataqua course at Southport and the fine craft exceeded the speed required nearly one mile. Quite a party was on board and all were loud in their praises of the style and speed of the new boat. She will be ready for departure for Portsmouth in a few days.

"Ye Tatler" will be the title of the summer paper at Squirrel Island for this season. The editors are W. S. M. Kelley, son of J. W. Kelley, and D. P. Allen of Boston, son of George Allen, formerly of Waterville. The first paper will be issued the 30th of June.

The Saco school board now has under consideration a summer school, intended to supplement the work done in the lower primary grades during the regular school year. This scheme has been put into practice in Massachusetts with good results, the idea being that children who have been irregular in attendance can make up their work and continue with their class. The sessions of these summer schools are held in the forenoon only.

Two sportsmen, members of the Osmoscoggin Club Association, were arrested at Rangeley, Monday by Deputy Sheriff Bisnett, of Rangeley, for fishing in the Rangeley stream in waters that were closed. They were brought before the trial justice, pleaded guilty and recognized in the sum of one hundred dollars for their appearance to the September term of court at Farmington.

Henry Robbs was fishing near the falls in Rock at Rangeley, Sunday, and discovered a gill dragging a trout after him. The gill got tangled in some brush near the shore and was caught by the gaff which found that the trout had a case of lockjaw in his mouth, and the gill had one of the hooks through its eye. The fish had apparently been dead several days, the line and fish were taken to camp and the gill liberated.

A Lewiston man complained to the police the other night that he had run out with his overcoat on his arm and left his money in the pocket. Today he came returned to the station and said that he was sorry to have made the trouble and the boy was found. He had not run away. The marshal had telegraphed all over the country and detectives in Boston and New York had their eyes open for the lad.

The Yarmouth electric road last accepted the terms of the order lately passed by the Portland city government in relation to crossing Tukey's bridge.

Gardiner's city government has settled on an appropriation bill at last. It took three months to hold up to Tuesday night's action, and then a conference committee decided the disputed items as follows: Salaries, $2,500; high school fund, $3,775; salary of first assessor, $400; tax collector, $450 or $650 if collected within 18 months; street commissioner, $800; and street roller, $400. The report was accepted and the bill promptly signed by the mayor, who had implored his purchase of calling a meeting every week, the offender, if good behavior, an agreement was reached and a bill passed.

"We shall get ready to build a high school, but I doubt if we get to it this year," said a member of the Lewiston city government, today.

One of the sleds on Oxford street in Lewiston on Friday afternoon, was a very little baby in a sled from the edge of a tenement, tenement building, dangling its little chubby legs over the edge, and darling with its doll. A lurch forward would send the baby into the street below. The father saw the two-year-old, and trembled. He was in the street below and his wife was busy at work up in the building. The man ran quietly till he reached the door where his wife was at work, and then walked unconcernedly into the door. "Where's baby?" she asked. "I don't know I'm sure," said the man, and sauntered up to the roof. There sat baby above the street, still dangling and talking to the doll. The man pulled out his watch and held it towards the child as he advanced. Baby looked around, saw the watch, gave the smile and held up its hands for the watch. Some men might have frightened the child, but in this case the baby was still till the man had his hand on him. Then he arrested his hands down, his pale face ceiling a shade, where she had found him.

The Maine Congregational conference will meet at the Saco First Parish church in September.

The Aroostook county conference of Congregational churches will be held in Presque Isle, June 14th and 15th.

The Oxford County Advertiser thus explains how Thompson pond got its name: About a mile northeast Thompson, who settled near the southern extremity, on a farm of his Phillips gore, afterward Thompson pond plantation, was grievously troubled with rats, coming in large numbers and pestiferous nearly destroying his entire crops. At last he trapped a large number in an empty hogshead and drove them through the living into a frame in the pond, which he securely fastened. Thirsting for revenge, he placed the dog in a boat and armed himself with a short cudgel, thought to have aboard the killing them at his leisure after rowing in good distance from land. But, alas! he soon found his mistake. As soon as released they attacked him from all sides, biting and lacerating his face and hands in a most horrible manner, forcing him to leap from the boat and paddle for life, leaving them in possession of the boat which drifted away and was not recovered for a long time. But the remainder of the days he never set foot in the boat, deported by the dog and never troubled him afterwards.

Hungary has lost one of its most brilliant literary men in Baron Nyarron de Zsadvan, who wrote under the pseudonym of Kolomy. His novel, "The Robber's Cloth," had an enormous success, for a number of years, he had lived in retirement on his estate, his temperament fancied he had died some time ago.

"Don't ask to hold my pulse!" Dr. Thomas Dr. Fletcher, of Lincoln, "Never can tell what moment an accident is going to happen."

Straw Mattings

$4.50 per roll of 40 yards, or 12 cents per yard in small pieces. Dainty figures predominate in our new lot of patterns, and placed on the floor in proper shape, the extreme similarity to a wool carpet is readily shown. Possessing as they do the one most important feature desired in a summer weather, that of coolness, our stock appeals to the good judgment of the home-loving.
